Person-Centred Therapy in Focus Paul Wilkins, 2002-12-13

Person Centred Therapy in Focus provides a much needed exploration of the criticisms levelled against one of the most widespread forms of therapeutic practice. Characterized by its critics as theoretically light culturally biased and limited in application until now the person centred approach has had comparatively little written in its defence. Paul Wilkins provides a rigorous and systematic response to the critics drawing not only on the work of Carl Rogers but also of those central to more recent developments in theory and practice including Goff Barrett Lennard Dave Mearns Jerold Bozarth Germain Leitauer and Brian Thorne. It traces the epistemological foundations of person centred therapy and places the approach in its social and political context. Examining the central tenets of the approach each chapter sets out concisely the criticisms and then counters these with arguments from the person centred perspective. Chapters cover debates in relation to the model of the person self actualization the core conditions non directivity resistance to psychopathology reflection and boundary issues.

Person Centred Therapy in Focus fulfills two important purposes firstly to answer the criticisms of those who have attacked the person centred approach and secondly to cultivate a greater critical awareness and understanding within the approach itself. As such it makes a significant contribution to the person centred literature and provides an excellent resource for use in training.
