Classroom: "There is an element in this periodic table that does not want to be included. Actually, this element is 'hiding out.' He can afford to hide out because this element has provided many other elements and it is just a bit of trouble for all of them to take care of. However, I am concerned he may be caught, so I thought, we might find all of these other elements and capture him for good. Therefore, providing the periodic table a new name which better fits all elements that is just this element. This element is 'hiding out' and is not wanted, so it is not wanted to be part of the table. The, if you could put it out and make it so it is not wanted to be part of the table, that is better. There is nothing I can provide for to get away."
