Evidence for wave nature of light:

1. Interference: interference fringes are created as two waves overlap (e.g. double-slit interference)
2. Refraction: refraction is apparent bending of light as it passes between two media having different indices of refraction
3. Dispersion: dispersion occurs because index of refraction is not the same for all wavelengths of light. Dispersion is the separation of light into its constituent colors as it passes through a medium.

Evidence for particle nature of light:

1. Photoelectric effect: light propagates in packets
 - a. Without sufficient frequencies of light, electrons are not ejected from metals.
 - b. Energy transfers in fixed increments called photons.
 - c. Electrons leave metals as photoelectrons as electrons absorb energy in increments of photons.
2. Compton effect: scattered electrons result in shorter wavelengths
