| 1. The teacher uses online resources, including professional social networking sites, to stay current on the latest research and best practices in his or her field.                                | The teacher reviews information online, discusses it with colleagues, but practice is minimally affected. | The teacher interacts in online networks with professionals. Teaching reflects what has been learned from those interactions.                                           | The teacher creates and shares innovative content and teaching practices with other professionals online.                                             |
| 2. The teacher is aware of the characteristics of "net generation" learners and their relationship with technology and uses this information to design engaging activities.                         | The teacher uses technology to present information in a one-to-many learning environment.                 | The teacher uses technologies to offer students a variety of resources to learn and solve problems.                                                                     | The teacher asks students to use technology resources of their choosing to learn and solve problems every day in class.                               |
| 3. The teacher determines the technology skill level of students, knows the expected competencies for productivity and research, and finds means of remediation of individual students when needed. | The teacher knows individual skill levels, but moves on according to predetermined lesson plans.          | The teacher has appropriate expectations of students based on their technology skill levels. Creates separate predetermined pathways for low and high skilled students. | The teacher uses formative assessments to gauge student skill development and provides flexible pathways, including student choice, for all learners. |
