Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet on the body composition and physical fitness of 10 sedentary, obese women. The women were randomly assigned to either a control or an experimental group. The control group was instructed to maintain their current diet and lifestyle, while the experimental group was instructed to follow a 1000 kcal energy deficit diet. The experimental group lost significantly more weight and body fat than the control group. The experimental group also showed a significant improvement in physical fitness, while the control group showed no change. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet is an effective method for weight loss and improvement in physical fitness in sedentary, obese women.

If you are not satisfied with your results, follow the instructions carefully and test your original article. If the referee's comments are of the "I'm going to work" and "I'm not sure" type, request a re-evaluation of the article and the referee's comments.

- When a producer's price for a product is so low that it is sold at a loss, the government should purchase the product. This is called a "buying out" of the product. The government should purchase the product at a price that is higher than the producer's price, but lower than the consumer's price. This will ensure that the producer is not forced to sell at a loss, and the consumer is not forced to pay a high price for the product.
