Physical Science Learner Guide Memorandum:

How We Teach Science John L. Rudolph, 2019-06-01 Despite an enduring belief that science should be taught there has been no enduring consensus about how or why This is especially true when it comes to teaching scientific process John Rudolph shows that how we think about and teach science will either sustain or thwart future innovation and determine how science is perceived by the public

Resources in Education ,1995-04

Teaching Children Science Sally Gregory Kohlstedt, 2010-05-15 In the early twentieth century a curriculum known as nature study flourished in major city school systems streetcar suburbs small towns and even rural one room schools This object based approach to learning about the natural world marked the first systematic attempt to introduce science into elementary education and it came at a time when institutions such as zoos botanical gardens natural history museums and national parks were promoting the idea that direct knowledge of nature would benefit an increasingly urban and industrial nation The definitive history of this once pervasive nature study movement Teaching Children Science emphasizes the scientific pedagogical and social incentives that encouraged primarily women teachers to explore nature in and beyond their classrooms Sally Gregory Kohlstedt brings to vivid life the instructors and reformers who advanced nature study through on campus schools summer programs textbooks and public speaking Within a generation this highly successful hands on approach migrated beyond public schools into summer camps afterschool activities and the scouting movement Although the rich diversity of nature study classes eventually lost ground to increasingly standardized curricula Kohlstedt locates its legacy in the living plants and animals in classrooms and environmental field trips that remain central parts of science education today
