When the Past Is Always Present Ronald A. Ruden,2011-01-19 When the Past Is Always Present Emotional Traumatization Causes and Cures introduces several new ideas about trauma and trauma treatment The first of these is that another way to treat disorders arising from the mind brain may be to use the senses This idea which is at the core of psychosensory therapy forms what the author considers the third pillar of trauma treatment the first and second pillars being psychotherapy and psychopharmacology Psychosensory therapy postulates that sensory input for example touch creates extrasensory activity that alters brain function and the way we respond to stimuli The second idea presented in this book is that traumatization is encoded in the amygdala only under special circumstances Thus by understanding what makes an individual resistant to traumatization we can offer a way of preventing it The third idea is that traumatization occurs because we cannot find a haven during the event This is the cornerstone of havening the particular form of psychosensory therapy described in the book Using evolutionary biological principles and recently published neuroscientific studies this book outlines in detail how havening touch de links the emotional experience from a trauma essentially making it just an ordinary memory Once done the event no longer causes distress rigorous pre employment screenings EMTs and paramedics are routinely exposed to life threatening incidents and have more health problems than individuals in other occupations PTSD rates in this group are as high as 20 percent PTSD prevalence in this profession is comparable to law enforcement Firefighters conduct paramedic activities and are the first responders to natural disasters Firefighting is a dangerous profession that exposes workers to stressful conditions and traumatic events ranging from threats to their safety and experiencing the devastating effects of catastrophes As a result the prevalence of PTSD in this group can be as high as 20 percent Volunteer firefighters may have even higher rates because they don t have access to the same level of support as career firefighters Healthcare workers especially those working in emergency rooms and intensive care units are also at higher risk For example nurses working in critical care units are more likely to develop PTSD than nurses in other groups In addition while senior level nurses report fewer PTSD symptoms than junior ones they report higher rates of burnout Finally healthcare workers exposed to patients that have experienced violence such as an assault victim are more likely to develop PTSD than surgeons who treat assault victims Rescue workers medical workers and volunteers who act as first responders during disasters witness the aftermath of horrific events and can even become involved in severe traumatic events The prevalence of PTSD in these individuals has been estimated to be between 15 and 30 percent Journalists who work as war correspondents are at higher risk of being injured killed or kidnapped Their lifetime prevalence of PTSD which can be as high as 30 percent reflects their lack of access to support and PTSD treatment options Transit and train operators are frequently exposed to physical threats and witness suicide incidents such as person under train events Exposure to these traumatic and threatening circumstances can be a daily or weekly occurrence Bus drivers are more prone to PTSD because they have more direct contact with the general public than train drivers locked in secure train cabs In these high risk professions the incidence of trauma declines when policies are in place to debrief victims give victims immediate access to counseling and screen for individuals at high risk of having adverse reactions to traumatic conditions

Brief Therapy for Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder Stephen Bisbey,Lori Beth Bisbey,1998-05-08 Therapists and counsellors in training and practice will welcome this concise and practical introduction to the TIR approach for helping clients with PTSD and other human traumas The book is application based providing a step by step guide from initial assessment to the last counselling session illustrated with many examples from actual sessions TIR is a person centred structured approach which can achieve symptom resolution in a brief course of counselling often about 20 hours respect and value the client s experience and needs work alongside a variety of therapy methods in a holistic way minimise the risk of re traumatization The authors provide a review of the major theories of stress and trauma and of other methods of working with clients that are most useful alongside the TIR approach an approach that is useful for a wide range of normal life traumas not just PTSD

Traumatic Incident Reduction (TIR) and Primary Resolution of the Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) Robert H. Moore, 2013-11-16 Traumatic Incident Reduction TIR and Primary Resolution of the Post Traumatic Stress Disorder provides a brief discussion illuminating the concept of PTSD how it arises what maintains it how it progresses to increasingly constrain a person s life PTSD also involves faulty thinking but focus on such present time reactions is ineffective without addressing the original trauma PTSD is the consequence of attempts to avoid re experiencing Traumatic Incident Reduction TIR is a technique for overcoming this tendency allowing the sufferer to experience the traumatic incident in a special safe way In the case of multiple traumas this can be complex needing to deal with each It is necessary to find the original trauma which invariably has led to more recent ones and fully resolve it in one sitting This provides complete relief from the burden of the past trauma An individual session designed to handles a single incident may take between 20 minutes and 3 hours average 1 5 hours The primary incident may be obvious to the sufferer or hidden People with anxiety problems but no flashbacks may find forgotten traumas the resolution of which through Thematic TIR can eliminate current symptoms Currently occurring emotional and somatic symptoms are traced back in time until a root incident is found Emotion and thinking are intertwined correcting one will correct the other TIR focuses on the emotion Once the trauma is fully processed the person is able to think rationally about it Dr Moore s monograph will guide you in deciding whether you will benefit from TIR and may inspire you to train to become a facilitator who can help others with this powerful family of techniques Bob Rich PhD www.anxietyanddepressionhelp.com Psychological First Aid :,2006
