Biodiversity and Conservation of Woody Plants M. R. Ahuja, S. Mohan Jain, 2017-11-21 This book provides complete comprehensive and broad subject based reviews for students teachers researchers policymakers conservationists and NGOs interested in the biodiversity and conservation of woody plants Forests cover approximately 31 percent of the world's total landmass 93 percent is natural forest and only 7 percent consists of planted trees Forest decline is progressing at an alarming rate worldwide In addition to human activities logging deforestation and exploiting forest lands for agriculture and industrial use a number of other factors including pests and diseases drought soil acidity radiation and ozone are cumulatively contributing to global forest decline The present situation forces us to focus on forest conservation strategies for the present and future Gene conservation and maintaining genetic diversity in forest ecosystems are crucial to the preservation of forest genetic resources This calls for integrated action to implement both the in situ on site preservation of forest stands and ex situ distant from the original site strategies for the conservation of woody plants genetic resources Selected priority areas include 1 assessing patterns of genetic diversity and threats 2 understanding the biological processes regulating genetic diversity 3 assessing the impact of human activities and climate change on genetic diversity and 5 finding methods for prioritizing species and populations for the conservation of forest trees genetic resources All chapters were written by leading scientists in their respective fields which include woody plant diversity ecology and evolution assessment of genetic diversity in forest tree populations conservation planning under climate change and in situ and ex situ strategies including biotechnological approaches for the conservation of woody plants genetic resources The Best 380 Colleges 2016 Princeton Review (Firm), 2015-08 A survey of life on the nation's campuses offers detailed profiles of the best colleges and rankings of colleges in sixty two different categories along with a wealth of information and applications tips Marine Biodiversity of Costa Rica, Central America Ingo S. Wehrtmann, Jorge Cortés, 2008-12-28 Life began in the sea and even today most of the deep diversity of the planet is marine This is often forgotten especially in tropical countries like Costa Rica renowned for their rain forests and the multitude of life forms found therein Thus this book focusing on marine diversity of Costa Rica is particularly welcome How many marine species are there in Costa Rica The authors report a total of 6 777 species or 3.5% of the world's total Yet the vast majority of marine species have yet to be formally described Recent estimates of the numbers of species on coral reefs range from 1.9 million so that the true number of marine species in Costa Rica is certainly far higher In some groups the numbers are likely to be vastly higher because to date they have been so little studied Only one species of nematode is reported despite the fact that it has been said that nematodes are the most diverse of all marine groups In better studied groups such as mollusks and crustaceans reported numbers are in the thousands but even in these groups many species remain to be described Indeed the task of describing marine species is daunting if there really are about 9 million marine species and Costa Rica has 3.5% of them then the total number would be over 300 000

Clearly so much remains to be done that new approaches are needed Genetic methods have enormous promise in this regard
