A Sustainable Future for the Mediterranean Guillaume Benoit, Aline Comeau, 2012-08-21 Here's a work arriving just at the right moment and contributing new insights at precisely the time when public opinion remains sceptical of the not very promising future we are preparing for our children when governments balk at explaining to their electorates the vital but unpopular decisions that have to be taken and when civil society with few ways and means is finally becoming involved This remarkable work will help all actors to understand the inter linkages between economic activities and the environment in the Mediterranean Basin and take concerted effective action to build a positive sustainable future Mohamed Ennabli former Minister of the Environment and Land Use Planning Tunisia The Blue Plan has carried out a remarkable assessment of the serious environmental problems and insufficiently targeted cooperation in the Mediterranean and also of new financing systems to be implemented which would increase the capacities of local authorities and economic and social partners Georges Corm former Minister of Finance Lebanon The Mediterranean Basin and its surrounding countries is a microcosm of the environmental and sustainability challenges facing people across the world Depending on the development path it takes in the future the region can either become a positive model for the regional regulation of globalization or more onerously it might reinforce global instability This unique volume is the definitive authoritative assessment of the environment and development of the Mediterranean Basin and its 22 countries and territories spanning five decades from 30 years in the past to 20 years into the future Produced by the Blue Plan within the framework of UNEP Mediterranean Action Plan and backed by the EU and national governments it brings together the work of more than 100 researchers from dozens of national regional and local governments and research groups into the only comprehensive insight into sustainable development issues in the region Core coverage includes water energy transport cities rural and coastal areas as well as related issues such as climate change population growth geopolitical changes unemployment and poverty pollution economic and environmental policies regional cooperation and the Euro Mediterranean Partnership Information is clearly presented through hundreds of full colour maps graphs tables and a wealth of case studies This is a must have reference for all levels of government NGOs and libraries as well as practitioners academics and businesses involved in economics natural resource management land and maritime transport water energy infrastructure urban and rural development agriculture fishing and aquaculture tourism and coastal management Countries and territories covered Spain France Italy Monaco Malta Cyprus Slovenia Croatia Bosnia Herzegovina Serbia and Montenegro Albania Greece Turkey Syria Lebanon Palestinian Territories Israel Egypt Libya Tunisia Algeria and Morocco Preface by Lucien Chabason Chairman of the Blue Plan The Challenge of Slums United Nations Human Settlements Programme, 2003 First Published in 2003 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company

State of the World's Cities 2008/9 Un-Habitat, 2012-05-04 Cities are perhaps one of humanity's most complex creations never finished never definitive They are like a journey that never ends Their evolution is determined by their ascent into greatness or their descent into decline They are the past the present and the future Cities contain both order and chaos In them reside beauty and ugliness virtue and vice They can bring out the best or the worst in humankind They are the physical manifestation of history and culture and incubators of innovation industry technology entrepreneurship and creativity Cities are the materialization of humanity's noblest ideas ambitions and aspirations but when not planned or governed properly can be the repository of society's ills Cities drive national economies by creating wealth enhancing social development and providing employment but they can also be the breeding grounds for poverty exclusion and environmental degradation The 21st Century is the Century of the City Half of humanity now lives in cities and within the next two decades 60 per cent of the world's people will reside in urban areas How can city planners and policymakers harmonize the various interests diversity and inherent contradictions within cities What ingredients are needed to create harmony between the physical social environmental and cultural aspects of a city and the human beings that inhabit it This report adopts the concept of Harmonious Cities as a theoretical framework in order to understand today's urban world and also as an operational tool to confront the most important challenges facing urban areas and their development processes It recognizes that tolerance diversity social justice and good governance all of which are inter related are as important to sustainable urban development as physical planning It addresses national concerns by searching for solutions at the city level For that purpose it focuses on three key areas spatial or regional harmony which examines the main drivers of urban growth in the developing world and explores the spatial nuances of economic and social policies social harmony which presents and analyzes new data on urban inequalities worldwide and describes the types of shelter deprivations experienced by slum dwellers in developing world regions and environmental harmony which examines the role of cities in the climate change debate and the impact of global warming on the most vulnerable cities The report also assesses the various intangible assets within cities that contribute to harmony such as cultural heritage sense of place and memory and the complex set of social and symbolic relationships that give cities meaning It argues that these intangible assets represent the soul of the city and are as important for harmonious urban development as tangible assets Harmony within cities argues the report is both a journey and a destination Published with UN HABITAT

Pathways for Getting to Better Water Quality: The Citizen Effect Lois Wright Morton, Susan S. Brown, 2010-11-25 This book is about accomplishing change in how land is managed in agricultural watersheds Wide ranging case studies repeatedly document that plans policies and regulations are not adequate substitutes for the empowerment of people Ultimately change on the land is managed and accomplished by the people that live on land within each watershed
