Mass Intellectuality and Democratic Leadership in Higher Education Joss Winn, Richard Hall, 2017-08-24 Higher education in the UK is in crisis The idea of the public university is under assault and both the future of the sector and its relationship to society are being gambled Higher education is increasingly unaffordable its historic institutions are becoming untenable and their purpose is resolutely instrumental What and who have led us to this crisis What are the alternatives To whom do we look for leadership in revealing those alternatives This book critically analyses intellectual leadership in the university exploring ongoing efforts from around the world to create alternative models for organizing higher education and the production of knowledge Its authors offer their experience and views from inside and beyond the structures of mainstream higher education in order to reflect on efforts to create alternatives In the process the volume asks is it possible to reimagine the university democratically and cooperatively If so what are the implications for leadership not just within the university but also in terms of higher education s relationship to society The authors argue that mass higher education is at the point where it no longer reflects the needs capacities and longterm interests of global society An alternative role and purpose is required based upon mass intellectuality or the real possibility of democracy in learning and the production of knowledge

Black Climates Selina Nwulu, 2025-08-28 To want to save the planet a person has to have a sense of belonging in it What would a saved planet look like for a Black collective This book is validating and monumental Courttia Newland Sensitive powerful and necessary Joycelyn Longdon Globally Black people are among the most affected by the climate crisis despite contributing very little to it For a long time the crisis was portrayed as yet another injustice for Black people to care about on top of the day to day oppression they face In Black Climates Selina Nwulu reframes the crisis to encompass our disconnection from each other and the world around us She argues that the root of climate change lies in historical colonial violence and ongoing exploitation making it inherently racist Nwulu former Young People s Laureate for London uses her poetic and skilful voice to directly address Black British readers who have been previously ignored in mainstream environmental conversations She includes interviews with a wide range of creatives and campaigners to explore a variety of subjects including air pollution prison ecology disability justice migration food nature community care and radical imagination This is an essential and empowering read for anyone who wants to fully understand the connections between Blackness and the climate crisis providing the tools to envisage more equitable futures

In the context of heightened climate variability thinking about ways to redesign our urban areas with more sustainable infrastructure solutions is becoming more and more important Green infrastructure GI is emerging as an alternative approach to traditional grey infrastructure in urban planning and development Its emergence can be understood in terms of the growing demand for infrastructure and services increased concerns over natural resource constraints and climate change and the negative impacts associated with traditional approaches to designing and building cities It has been proposed that GI can provide the same services as traditional infrastructure at a similar capital cost while also providing a range of additional benefits However despite the increasing examples of successful urban GI applications traditional infrastructure continues to dominate due to the lack of systematic evidence to support GI implementation As a result there has been an increase in calls from policy and decision makers for a greater evidence base on the benefits of GI as well as for practical guidelines on its implementation Towards applying a green infrastructure approach in the Gauteng City Region is the GCRO s third report in its ongoing research into Green assets and infrastructure The first two reports in this project series were more theoretically grounded and policy oriented whereas this third report is more practical in nature The first report explored the basic principles around GI assessed the extent of ecological features in Gauteng and the way governments in the province think about planning and maintenance of green assets The second report responded to some of the challenges identified in the first report and in particular the importance of government officials and practitioners in exploring how international green infrastructure plans could be applied in the Gauteng context This third report builds on the findings of the aforementioned reports and the project s CityLab series which highlighted the need to build an evidence base as critical for garnering support for and as well as enhancing investment in the GI approach Unlike the more theoretically grounded earlier reports this report comprises four technical sections and practical reflections on how a GI approach could be incorporated into urban planning in the GCR and in other similar urban contexts Psychiatry of Pandemics Damir Huremović, 2019-05-15 This book focuses on how to formulate a mental health response with respect to the unique elements of pandemic outbreaks Unlike other disaster psychiatry books that isolate aspects of an emergency this book unifies the clinical aspects of disaster and psychosomatic psychiatry with infectious disease responses at the various levels making it an excellent resource for tackling each stage of a crisis quickly and thoroughly The book begins by contextualizing the issues with a historical and infectious disease overview of pandemics ranging from the Spanish flu of 1918 the HIV epidemic Ebola Zika and many other
