

An example of an autobiographical essay/personal narrative

[Written by a student in the Labour Studies program, used with permission]

My name is Carlo, and I was born in June, 1958, in Italy. Our family, made up of my mother, father, and a brother, emigrated to Noranda, Quebec, when I was five years old. I encountered my first, but not last, taste of racism when kids in the neighbourhood laughed at my poor command of English. As fast as I could I learned not only English, but French as well. I became trilingual, speaking fluent French and English, as well as Italian. In the process, I made new friends from a lot of different cultural backgrounds.

We then moved to Toronto, Ontario, where my Dad got work in a rubber factory. From my earliest days, I knew our family had to struggle for every penny. My Mom baked pizza which my brother sold by the slice, door to door. I caddied at the local golf courses and brought home all the money that I made. I hated it when other kids made fun of working people, like garbage collectors, who cleaned up trash for a living.

When I was in grade six, I was ill in hospital for two months with a kidney infection, and it changed my whole life. I seriously took up playing guitar. I began to do photography, and joined the audiovisual club. I discovered I was artistic with an interest in graphic art, although I didn't always agree with the kind of art assignments the teacher gave us. However, I had no idea what to do after high school graduation. Thinking electronics was the wave of the future, I enrolled in and graduated with a diploma from George Brown College in Instrumentation Technology. I was hired on by Ontario Hydro as an apprentice.

Life was magical for a single guy in Toronto at this time. I made quite a bit of money. I enjoyed meeting and socializing with many new friends from a variety of different cultures. During this time, I met and married my wife, Valerie, a Registered Nurses' Assistant, and soon we had two wonderful children, a daughter, Carla and a son, Nicholas. With new family responsibilities, I felt there was not enough opportunity for advancement at work. My wife and I thought of places we would like to live such as the east coast. But there were no jobs there. We finally decided to move to northern B.C. when I was offered a job with a forestry company.

Because of the children's activities, I soon became involved in the community coaching children's hockey and soccer, and being a scout leader. At work, I joined the Pulp Mill Recreation Club, eventually becoming president. There were a lot of things that needed changing. I decided I wanted our company to start a wellness program and researched to prove to them that healthy employees tremendously reduced absenteeism and health costs to the company. I wanted the company to reward those who kept themselves fit and began to lobby for this through our union.

I soon became elected as union safety captain, then later became a shop steward. I began to run for executive positions rising through the ranks from financial secretary to environmental vice president, chief shop steward, first vice president, and finally becoming president, a position I held for two years.

In my trade, I constantly must upgrade my skills, so I took advantage of many learning opportunities to do so through the company. This helped our union come into the 21st century, because I insisted we buy computers and subscribe to e-mail, connecting our members to other locals throughout the province. I also edited the union newsletter, keeping the members informed of all aspects of the local's business. I used desktop publishing to produce our newsletter before anyone in Head Office knew what it was. Using my background in art and photography, I brought our publication from a crude photocopied rag to a sophisticated communication tool. For my efforts, I won two Canadian Association of Labour Media Awards, one for the best cartoon in

Linguistics has suffered from the lack of interaction between theoretical and experimental activities In order to carry out experimental studies in language it is of course necessary to have a descriptive system for the stimuli and formal linguistics has provided a plethora of alternative possibilities In addition the theory can perhaps suggest some hints as to the direction experimental studies might take at least to the extent that it suggest various kinds of relation among syntactic or phonological structures But the theory alone cannot determine the nature of such relations in the cognitive or processing system of the language user The first section of this volume addresses several of the key theoretical controversies in linguistics and attempts to specify the kinds of experimental evidence which might contribute to their ultimate resolution The papers in the second section concern the collection of that evidence and its interpretation

Medieval Women and the Law Noël James Menuge, 2003 Legal records illuminate women's use of legal processes with regard to the making of wills the age of consent rights concerning marriage and children women as traders etc Determined and largely successful effort to read behind and alongside legal discourses to discover women's voices and women's feelings It adds usefully to the wider debate on women's role in medieval society

ENGLISH HISTORICAL REVIEW What is really new here is the ways in which the authors approach the history of the law they use some decidedly non legal texts to examine legal history they bring together historical and literary sources and they debunk the view that medieval laws had little to say about women or that medieval women had little legal agency

ALBION The legal position of the late medieval woman has been much neglected and it is this gap which the essays collected here seek to fill They explore the ways in which women of all ages and stations during the late middle ages c 1300 c 1500 could legally shift for themselves and how and where they did so Particular topics discussed include the making of wills the age of consent rights concerning marriage care custody and guardianship with particular emphasis on the rights of a mother attempting to gain custody of her own children within the court system women as traders women as criminals prostitution the rights of battered women within the courts the procedures women had to go through to gain legal redress and access rape and women within guilds
