Lumley's Bibliographical Advertiser, 1840 Theory as Practice Jochen Schulte-Sasse, Haynes Horne, 1997 In light of recent dramatic revisions in criticism of European particularly German Romanticism this anthology brings together key texts of the movement especially those written in the last quarter of the eighteenth century by Fichte Schelling Novalis August Wilhelm Schlegel and Friedrich Schlegel among others Writing, a Content Approach to ESL Composition Mark G. Jenkins, 1986 The Imperial Magazine; Samuel Drew, 1829 Unmeasured Information and the Methodology of Social Scientific Inquiry Donald W. Katzner, 2012-12-06 I have three reasons for bringing out the ensuing collection of essays First since analysis without measurement this is generally not the same thing as what is commonly referred to as qualitative methods or qualitative research in the social science literature is a relatively new scholarly endeavor I am striving to enhance its visibility by attracting a wider audience than what would normally be possible with single narrowly focused essays published in scattered journals Second several of these essays may in the minds of potential readers appear to have been published in places that if not obscure are at least inconvenient to locate Collecting them in a single anthology then will help to increase their accessibility Third I am trying to suggest as strongly as I can that analysis without measurement is a viable intellectual enterprise that ought to be taken seriously in social science This last point will clearly be enhanced if the whole that follows turns out as I hope and suspect it does to be greater than the sum of its parts All the same each reader will have to judge for himself or herself the extent to which I have through the present collection successfully made the case for taking up analysis without measurement The partitioning of these essays into two groups is somewhat though by no means completely arbitrary Oxford EAP Upper-intermediate/ B2 Student Book Edward de Chazal, John Hughes, 2015-08-13 Oxford English for Academic Purposes offers a specialist course covering listening speaking and reading in key areas of academic life such as lectures presentations and textbooks The course is consistent with levels A2 to C1 of the Common European Frame of Reference for the teaching of foreign languages Great downloadable resources to support you when using Oxford English for Academic Purposes can be found at <https://elt.oup.com/student/oxfordeap> A Traveler Disguised Dan Miron, 1996-02-01 This exposition of writer S Y Abramovitsh explores the symbolic importance of his central character Mendele the Bookseller and the history of Yiddish fiction in Russia during the nineteenth century Imperial Romance Su Yun Kim, 2020-11-15 In Imperial Romance Su Yun Kim argues that the idea of colonial intimacy within the Japanese empire of the early twentieth century had a far broader and more popular influence on discourse makers social leaders and intellectuals than previously understood Kim investigates representations of Korean Japanese intimate and familial relationships including romance marriage and kinship in literature media and cinema alongside documents that discuss colonial policies during the Japanese protectorate period and colonial rule in Korea 1905-45 Focusing on Korean perspectives

Kim uncovers political meaning in the representation of intimacy and emotion between Koreans and Japanese portrayed in print media and films Imperial Romance disrupts the conventional reading of colonial period texts as the result of either coercion or the disavowal of colonialism thereby expanding our understanding of colonial writing practices The theme of intermarriage gave elite Korean writers and cultural producers opportunities to question their complicity with imperialism Their fictions challenged expected colonial boundaries creating tensions in identity and hierarchy and also in narratives of the linear developmental trajectory of modernity Examining a broad range of writings and films from this period Imperial Romance maps the colonized subjects fascination with their colonizers and with moments that allowed them to become active participants in and agents of Japanese and global imperialism

Personal Letters between Lu Qingsheng and Jiang

Zhenyuan, 1961-1986 Letian Zhang, Yunxiang Yan, 2018-04-17 This rare unusual collection contains a total of 774 letters most of which were written by a couple Mr Lu and Ms Jiang who lived apart for more than fifteen years between 1961 and 1986 and relied mainly on letter writing to communicate They passionately revealed romantic love and conjugal compassion to each other they discussed mundane details of everyday family life including management of the household economy efforts of interacting with in laws relatives and friends learning course of raising children and strategies of coping with financial hardship They also sincerely engaged each other in a soul searching process of making themselves into socialist subjects and participating in various political campaigns The content of these letters is as rich and complicated as the flow of life itself in which the personal economic and political are intermingled together The degree of sincerity and honesty in these letters is greater than that in many other kinds of historical data because the authors are not writing for public consumption This rare collection of personal letters presents not only a huge amount of original and disaggregated data but also constitutes an oral history of social life in China that is unintentionally being recorded by the authors The Jewish Quarterly Review ,1921
