At the variables on the right side of this expression are known, and we substitute to get Equation 2, as indicated in the right column.

(10.8)

Solution: Algebraically combining the results of the steps above, we have

$$\begin{aligned} \text{STEP 1} \quad \omega &= \frac{2\pi}{T} \\ \text{STEP 2} \quad \omega &= \frac{2\pi}{T} = \frac{2\pi}{1.25 \text{ s}} = 5.03 \text{ rad/s} \end{aligned}$$

Example 8 indicates that the mass of the vibrating object influences the frequency of simple harmonic motion. Electronic sensors are being developed that take advantage of this effect in detecting and measuring small amounts of chemicals. These sensors consist of two quartz crystals that vibrate when an electric current passes through them. If a crystal is coated with a substance that absorbs a particular chemical, then the mass of the crystal increases. According to Equations (10.6) and (10.7), the frequency of the simple harmonic motion decreases. The change in frequency is detected electronically, and the sensor is calibrated to give the mass of the absorbed chemical.

The physics of detecting and measuring small amounts of chemicals.

10. The diagram shows three of the oscillations. A vertical line marks the time t for three objects undergoing simple harmonic motion. Which object—A, B, or C—has the greatest maximum velocity?

11. In Figure 10.12 the shadow moves in simple harmonic motion, where on the path of the shadow is the acceleration equal to zero?

12. A particle is oscillating in simple harmonic motion. The time required for the particle to travel through one complete cycle is equal to the period of the motion, no matter what the amplitude is. But how can this be, since larger amplitudes mean that the particle travels farther?
