Cyber Resilience Sergei Petrenko, 2022-09-01 Modern cyber systems acquire more emergent system properties as far as their complexity increases cyber resilience controllability self organization proactive cyber security and adaptability Each of the listed properties is the subject of the cybernetics research and each subsequent feature makes sense only if there is a previous one Cyber resilience is the most important feature of any cyber system especially during the transition to the sixth technological stage and related Industry 4.0 technologies Artificial Intelligence AI Cloud and foggy computing 5G IoT IIoT Big Data and ETL Q computing Blockchain VR AR etc We should even consider the cyber resilience as a primary one because the mentioned systems cannot exist without it Indeed without the sustainable formation made of the interconnected components of the critical information infrastructure it does not make sense to discuss the existence of 4.0 Industry cyber systems In case when the cyber security of these systems is mainly focused on the assessment of the incidents probability and prevention of possible security threats the cyber resilience is mainly aimed at preserving the targeted behavior and cyber systems performance under the conditions of known about 45 % as well as unknown the remaining 55 % cyber attacks This monograph shows that modern Industry 4.0 Cyber systems do not have the required cyber resilience for targeted performance under heterogeneous mass intruder cyber attacks The main reasons include a high cyber system structural and functional complexity a potential danger of existing vulnerabilities and sleep hardware and software tabs as well as an inadequate efficiency of modern models methods and tools to ensure cyber security reliability response and recovery

Army and Navy Register, 1923 Defence Industries in the 21st Century Çağlar Kurç, Richard A. Bitzinger, Stephanie G. Neuman, 2021-05-13 Defence Industries in the 21st Century explores the transformation in the global defence industrial production through examining the interaction between international and domestic factors With the global defence industry and arms market likely continue to expand and mature the ways in which this progression could influence international politics remain obscure In practice as the contents of this book show the defence industrial bases and arms export policies of emerging states display significant variance This variance is the result of a unique balance between domestic and international factors that has shaped the defence industrialisation behaviour and policies of the less industrialised states One of the most important conclusions of the book is that the interplay between domestic and international factors clearly influences the variation in the emerging states defence industrialisation policies as well as their success or failure While international factors create opportunities they also limit the options available to emerging economies Domestic factors also play an important role by shaping the policy choices of the states decision makers Exploring the balance between international and domestic factors and the ways in which they influence defence industrialisation in emerging states Defence Industries in the 21st Century will be of great interest to scholars of Defence Industries Arms Manufacturing and Defence Strategic and Security Studies more generally The chapters were originally published in Defence Studies Comparative Strategy and All Azimuth International Law Malcolm N.
