

Experiment #1
Deformation of Straight beams:
A cantilever beam
Experiment Instructions:

1- Introduction

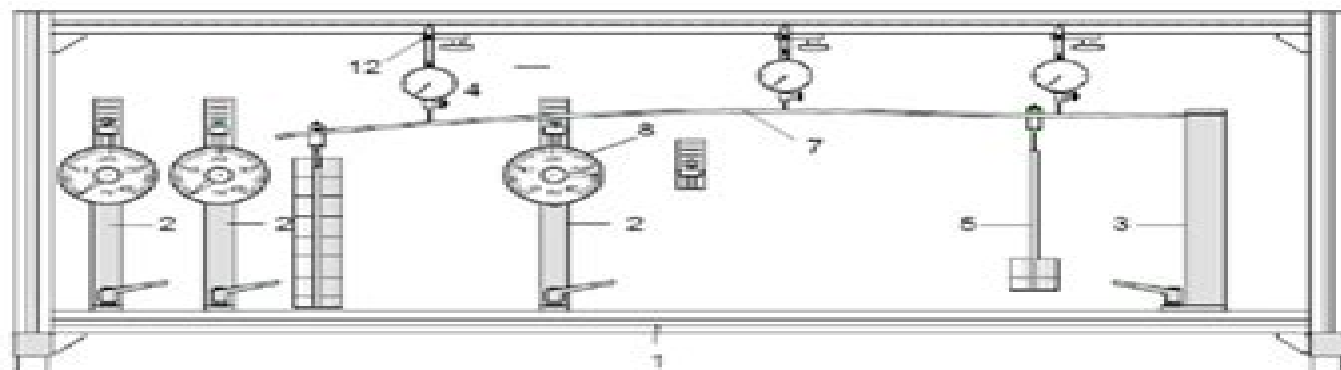

The WP 950 device for deformation of straight beams permits a broad spectrum of experiments on the deformation of a bending bar. We will be performing the following experiments:

- Deflection of beams under different support conditions
- Elastic line under different support conditions

You need to note the following:

- The loads are applied using different sets of weights
- The deformation of the bar is measured using a dial gauge
- The forces on the supports are measured using dynamometers
- The bars used are thin, which allows a visual deflection
