Introduction

Indira Gandhi was born of Priyadarshini Nehru in 1917 in Allahabad province of India. She was the daughter of Jawaharlal Nehru who was India's first prime minister. Indira had the chance to enjoy excellent education by going to Somerville College, as well as the Oxford University from where she finalized her college education. Indira was later married to Feroze Gandhi between the years 1942-1960.

The Nehru family was a political family in India that produced political leaders for India. When her mother died in 1936, she became the only person closest to her father. This case enabled her to rub shoulders with people in leadership and the diplomatic world thus growing up as an experienced person in politics and diplomacy.

After her father's death, she was elected as president for India's National Congress. She subsequently assumed the post of the minister for information. Indira became "India's prime minister in 1966 to 1977 and from 1980 to 1984" (Steinberg, 2005, p.760).

She was assassinated in 1984 by her Sikh bodyguard in revenge for her ordering the invasion of the Golden temple, which was a Sikh holy place to flush out separatists hiding in the temple. Indira was considered the iron woman of India for the way she ruled the country with an Iron fist.

Characteristics, which are unique to her leadership style

Indira grew up as a hardened child whose parents were always away from home attending independence strategy meetings. Thus, she had to learn to overcome her fear of her parents being away by developing into a tough strong-headed girl. When Indira took over as the prime minister of India, she showed her knack for independent mindedness by sacking some of her father's loyalists from the government who were viewed as powerful persons in the Indian political circles.
