Sa Army Skills Development System Forms 2015:

South Africa's Post-Apartheid Military Lindy Heineken, 2020-01-01 This timely book examines how the South African National Defence Force has adapted to the country's new security political and social environment since 1994. In South Africa's changed political state, how has civilian control of the military been implemented and what does this mean for defence in a democracy? This book presents an overview of the security environment, how the mission focus of the military has changed and the implications for force procurement, force preparation, force employment and force sustainability. The author addresses other issues such as the effect of integrating former revolutionary soldiers into a professional armed force, the effect of affirmative action on meritocracy, recruitment and retention, military veterans looking at the difficulties they face in reintegrating back into society and finding gainful employment, gender equality and mainstreaming the rise of military unions and why a confrontational instead of a more corporatist approach to labour relations has emerged. HIV/AIDS and the consequences this holds for the military in terms of its operational effectiveness. In closing, the author highlights key events that have caused the SANDF to become lost in transition and transformation, spelling out some lessons learned. The conclusions she draws are pertinent for the future of defence security and civil-military relations of countries around the world.

Contested Terrain Steven Ratuva, 2019-09-10 Contested Terrain provides a cutting edge comprehensive and innovative approach to critically analysing the multidimensional and contested nature of security narratives justified by different ideological political cultural and economic rationales This is important in a complex and ever changing situation involving a dynamic interplay between local regional and global factors Security narratives are constructed in multiple ways and are used to frame our responses to the challenges and threats to our sense of safety wellbeing identity and survival but how the narratives are constructed is a matter of intellectual and political contestation Using three case studies from the Pacific Fiji Tonga and Solomon Islands Contested Terrain shows the different security challenges facing each country which result from their unique historical political and socio cultural circumstances Contrary to the view that the Pacific is a generic entity with common security issues this book argues for more localised and nuanced approaches to security framing and analysis      Britain and Africa in the twenty-first century Danielle Beswick, Jonathan Fisher, Stephen R. Hurt, 2019-07-11 Britain and Africa in the twenty first century offers the first book length study of how Britain's relationship with Africa has fared since the fall of the 1997-2010 New Labour government      High Performance Cognition: Information-Processing in Complex Skills, Expert Performance, and Flow Benjamin Cowley, Frederic Dehais, Stephen Fairclough, Otto Lappi, Jussi Palomäki, 2020-12-10 This eBook is a collection of articles from a Frontiers Research Topic Frontiers Research Topics are very popular trademarks of the Frontiers Journals Series they are collections of at least ten articles all centered on a particular subject With their unique mix of varied contributions from Original Research to Review Articles Frontiers Research Topics unify the most influential researchers the latest key findings and historical advances in a hot research area Find out more on how to host your own Frontiers Research Topic or contribute to one as an author by contacting the Frontiers Editorial Office frontiersin.org/about/contact      Visual-spatial Ability in STEM Education Myint Swe Khine, 2016-10-13 Each chapter in this book makes a unique contribution to the body of the literature and enhances the understanding of spatial ability and its influence on learning in the STEM disciplines It addresses spatial abilities ways to measure them as well as their impact and how they can affect learning subjects in scientific technology and engineering domains The volume deliberately covers a wide range perspectives from cognitive psychology educational psychology science technology engineering and mathematics computer science information technology disciplines to human development Taking a broad view on the topic chapters in the book discuss how to define spatial ability and its factors the measurement of spatial ability and psychometric analyses and educational strategies to improve spatial skills and their implications for science and technology education The book thus provides an overview of current thinking about visual spatial ability spatial reasoning and spatial skills      Augmentation of Brain Function: Facts, Fiction and Controversy Ioan Opris, Manuel F. Casanova, Mikhail Lebedev, 2018-09-14 The Volume II is entitled Neurostimulation and pharmacological approaches This volume describes augmentation approaches where improvements in brain functions are achieved by modulation of brain circuits with electrical or optical stimulation or pharmacological agents Activation of brain circuits with electrical currents is a conventional approach that includes such methods as i intracortical microstimulation ICMS ii transcranial direct current stimulation tDCS and iii transcranial magnetic stimulation TMS tDCS and TMS are often regarded as noninvasive methods Yet they may induce long lasting plastic changes in the brain This is why some authors consider the term noninvasive misleading when used to describe these and other techniques such as stimulation with transcranial lasers The volume further discusses the potential of neurostimulation as a research tool in the studies of perception cognition and behavior Additionally a notion is expressed that brain augmentation with stimulation cannot be described as a net zero sum proposition where brain resources are reallocated in such a way that gains in one function are balanced by costs elsewhere In recent years optogenetic methods have received an increased attention and several articles in

Volume II cover different aspects of this technique While new optogenetic methods are being developed the classical electrical stimulation has already been utilized in many clinically relevant applications like the vestibular implant and tactile neuroprosthesis that utilizes ICMS As a peculiar usage of neurostimulation and pharmacological methods Volume II includes several articles on augmented memory Memory prostheses are a popular recent development in the stimulation based BMIs For example in a hippocampal memory prosthesis memory content is extracted from hippocampal activity using a multiple input multiple output non linear dynamical model As to the pharmacological approaches to augmenting memory and cognition the pros and cons of using nootropic drugs are discussed

Traumatic Brain Injury as a Systems Neuroscience Problem H. Isaac Chen, John F. Burke, Akiva S. Cohen, 2017-04-27 Traumatic brain injury TBI is traditionally viewed as an anatomic and neuropathological condition Caring for TBI patients is a matter of defining the extent of an anatomical lesion managing this lesion and minimizing secondary brain injury On the research side the effects of TBI often are studied in the context of neuronal and axonal degeneration and the subsequent deposition of abnormal proteins such as tau These approaches form the basis of our current understanding of TBI but they pay less attention to the function of the affected organ the brain Much can be learned about TBI by studying this disorder on a systems neuroscience level and correlating changes in neural circuitry with neurological and cognitive function There are several aspects of TBI that are a natural fit for this perspective including post traumatic epilepsy consciousness and cognitive sequelae How individual neurons contribute to network activity and how network function responds to injury are key concepts in examining these areas In recent years the available tools for studying the role of neuronal assemblies in TBI have become increasingly sophisticated ranging from optogenetic and electrophysiological techniques to advanced imaging modalities such as functional magnetic resonance imaging and magnetoencephalography Further progress in understanding the disruption and subsequent reshaping of networks is likely to have substantial benefits in the treatment of patients with TBI associated deficits In this Frontiers Topic we intend to highlight the systems neuroscience approach to studying TBI In addition to analyzing the clinical sequelae of TBI in this context this series of articles explores the pathophysiological mechanisms underlying network dysfunction including alterations in synaptic activity changes in neural oscillation patterns and disruptions in functional connectivity We also include articles on treatment options for TBI patients that modulate network function It is our hope that this Frontiers Topic will increase the clinical and scientific communities awareness of this viable framework for deepening our knowledge of TBI and improving patient outcomes
