Use MySQL and the Henry Books database (Figures 1-4 through 1-7 in Chapter 1) to complete the following exercises. Use the notes at the end of Chapter 3 to print your output if directed to do so by your instructor.

1. List the book code and book title of each book.
2. List the complete PUBLISHER table.
3. List the name of each publisher located in Boston.
4. List the name of each publisher not located in Boston.
5. List the name of each branch that has at least nine employees.
6. List the book code and book title of each book that has the type SFI.
7. List the book code and book title of each book that has the type SFI and is in paperback.
8. List the book code and book title of each book that has the type SFI or is published by the publisher with the publisher code SC.
9. List the book code, book title, and price of each book with a price between $20 and $30.
10. List the book code and book title of each book that has the type MYS and a price of less than $20.
11. Customers who are part of a special program get a 10% discount off regular book prices. List the book code, book title, and discounted price of each book. Use DISCOUNTED_PRICE as the name for the computed column, which should calculate 90% of the current price; that is, 100% less a 10% discount.
12. Find the name of each publisher containing the word "and." (Hint: Be sure that your query selects only those publishers that contain the word "and" and not those that contain the letters "and" in the middle of a word. For example, your query should select the publisher named "Farrar Straus and Giroux," but should not select the publisher named "Random House.")
13. List the book code and book title of each book that has the type SFI, MYS, or ART. Use the IN operator in your command.
14. Repeat Exercise 13, but also list the books in alphabetical order by title.
15. Repeat Exercise 13, but also include the price, and list the books in descending order by price. Within a group of books having the same price, further order the books by title.
16. Display the list of book types in the database. List each book type only once.
17. How many books have the type SFI?
18. For each type of book, list the type and the average price.
19. Repeat Exercise 18, but consider only paperback books.
20. Repeat Exercise 18, but consider only paperback books for those types for which the average price is more than $10.
21. What is the most expensive book in the database?
22. What are the title(s) and price(s) of the least expensive book(s) in the database?
23. How many employees does Henry Books have?
