Resonate The Stories We Tell Ourselves:

Resonate Christal Earle, 2014-11-30 What do you really believe about who you are Many of us might not even be sure how to answer that question We are often driven by the desire to draw conclusions on every event memory or encounter We then organize those into one of two piles good or bad Is it possible that it could be less about those experiences being good or bad and more about the story we will believe about ourselves as a result Resonate The Stories We Tell Ourselves is an invitation to ask some honest questions What do you do when life throws you off course How do you recover from loss and disappointment How do you face the fear that has haunted you for so long Where do you begin to heal and forgive when it seems too difficult The truth is that we are ultimately the ones that decide the stories we are to going to tell ourselves My story has grown to be about what I have chosen to tell myself and this is now my invitation to you to begin to do the same This is me sharing with you how there is a path out of the confusion the hurt the colossal disappointment and the discombobulated mess your life can sometimes become without your permission And along the way hilarity and heartbreak often go hand in hand Christal Earle
