Frieson, Maw Pin Tan, Marcia G. Ory, Matthew Lee Smith, 2018-09-20 Falls and fall related injuries among older adults have emerged as serious global health concerns which place a burden on individuals their families and greater society As fall incidence rates increase alongside our globally aging population fall related mortality hospitalizations and costs are reaching never seen before heights Because falls occur in clinical and community settings additional efforts are needed to understand the intrinsic and extrinsic factors that cause falls among older adults effective strategies to reduce fall related risk and the role of various professionals in interventions and efforts to prevent falls e g nurses physicians physical therapists occupational therapists health educators social workers economists policy makers As such this Research Topic sought articles that described interventions at the clinical community and or policy level to prevent falls and related risk factors Preference was given to articles related to multi factorial evidence based interventions in clinical e g hospitals long term care facilities skilled nursing facilities residential facilities and community e g

senior centers recreation facilities faith based organizations settings However articles related to public health indicators and social determinants related to falls were also included based on their direct implications for evidence based interventions and best practices Manual del Bachiller en Artes Mariano de Rementería,1860 Transpeople Christopher

Shelley,2008-01-01 Shelley studies both the inadvertent challenges that transpeople make to traditional sex and gender definitions and the reactions of resistance defensiveness and phobias of non trans people when sex and gender norms are challenged Encyclopedia of Library and Information Science Allen Kent,2002-06-04 This supplement covers topics ranging from academic library funding to visual information querying Decision-Making in High Risk Organizations Under Stress Conditions Anthony J. Spurgin,David W. Stupples,2016-08-19 This book discusses management decision making under accident conditions as a vehicle to confirm the importance of clear decision making guided by a systems approach on how an organization functions related to the role of managers operators and the operation of the plant The book shows how to effectively assess the reliability of an organization particularly those organizations responsible for critical infrastructure The authors have used Stafford Beer s cybernetic model as a basis to model the behavior and reliability of such organizations A series of case studies are used to draw conclusions not only how training experience and education can improve the strategy and response of management to reduce the probability of an economic or social disaster but also draw attention to the fact that managers need to be made aware of the consequences of their decisions Poor management decisions made under stress conditions can lead to the collapse of an organization together with its underlying business possibly linked to a social disaster with loss of life Some technology ignorant management decisions even under non stress conditions can lead to dangerous situations which can increase the economic burden placed on an organization This book describes such situations in order to promote improvement in organizational preparedness by training experience and education to reduce safety and economic risks This book offers Case studies of accidents that have affected different HROs high risk organizations and others due to poor decision making by management Training methods advocated by Admiral Hyman Rickover adopted by military bodies and others to prepare staff to make critical decisions under difficult conditions and examine their applicability to training managers of high risk facilities Documentation on how making decisions in difficult situations have psychological constraints related to the degree of preparedness and the tools available to aid the decision maker s Studies on the key actions taken before during and after accidents and how these management decisions can affect accident propagation and how one could improve management decision making by the use of training in decision making and an understanding of Ross Ashby s Law of Requisite Variety Simulation techniques to improve training of front line operators and management Consideration of cost and investment evaluations and how they can distort the selection of tactics and measures that ensure successful operations and avoidance of accidents Solid Software Shari Lawrence Pfleeger,Les Hatton,Charles C. Howell,2002 This text introduces readers to the software assurance and quality issues for critical systems so that they can make informed choices when they specify a system evaluate a design or review test results It pays particular attention to issues of quality and robustness

The Bible in Photography Sheona Beaumont, 2024-01-25 Sheona Beaumont addresses the untold story of biblical subjects in photography She argues that stories characters and symbols from the Bible are found to pervade photographic practices and ideas across the worlds of advertising and reportage the book and the gallery in theoretical discourse and in the words of photographers themselves Beaumont engages interpretative tools from biblical reception studies art history and visual culture criticism in order to present four terms for describing photography's latent spirituality the index the icon the tableau and the vision Throughout her journey she includes lively discussion of selected fine art photography dealing with the Bible in surprising ways from images by William Henry Fox Talbot in the 19th century to David Mach in the 21st Far from telling a secular story photography and the conditions of its representations are exposed in theological depth Beaumont skillfully interweaves discussion of the images and theology arguing for the dynamic and potent voice of the Bible in photography and enriching visual culture criticism with a renewed religious understanding

Cognitive Systems Engineering Jens Rasmussen, Annelise Mark Pejtersen, L. P. Goodstein, 1994-08-16 Powerful information technologies and the complex support systems they engender are evolving faster than people's ability to adjust to them In the workplace this leads to troublesome task performance added stress on users increased organizational inefficiency and in some cases a heightened risk of wide scale disaster In the marketplace it makes for consumer dissatisfaction Clearly traditional human computer interaction HCI and system design SD solutions to this dilemma have proven woefully inadequate What is needed is a fresh multidisciplinary approach offering a broader more dynamic framework for assessing needs and designing usable efficient systems Taking modeling concepts from engineering psychology cognitive science information science and computer science cognitive systems engineering CSE provides such a framework This book is the first comprehensive guide to the emerging new field of CSE Providing equal parts theory and practice it is based on the authors many years of experience with work systems in a wide range of work domains including process control manufacturing hospitals and libraries Throughout the emphasis is on powerful analytical techniques that enhance the systems designer's ability to see the big picture and to design for all crucial aspects of human work interaction Applicable to highly structured technical systems such as process plants as well as less structured user driven systems like libraries these analytical techniques form the basis for the evaluation and design guidelines that make up the bulk of this book And since the proof is in the pudding the authors provide a chapter length case history in which they demonstrate the success of their approach when applied to a full scale software design project The project a retrieval system for public libraries is described in detail from field studies to concept validation experiments and of course the empirical evaluation of the system while in use by the library users and personnel Computer based information systems are rapidly becoming a fundamental part of the human landscape How that landscape evolves over the next decade or so whether it becomes a hostile one or one that generously supports the needs of future generations is in the hands of all those involved with the study and design of information systems
