The Lion and the Mouse

Awake from his nap, the lion laid his paws gently on the tiny creature, ready to pounce for his "game." "You're not" began the poor mouse. "Please let me go, and someday, I will surely repay you!" The lion was inclined to think that a mouse could not help. But he was generous and finally let the mouse go.

Some days later, while walking to prey in the forest, the lion was caught in a hunter's net. Unable to free himself, he called the forest with his angry roars. The mouse from the nest was quickly found the lion struggling in his net.

Running to one of the great oaks that towered high, the mouse lit with a peck, and soon the lion was free. "You laughed when I said I would repay you," said the mouse. "Now you see that even a mouse can help a lion."

A lion and a mouse were friends.

The Tortoise and the Hare

Once, there was a strong, young hare who bragged about how fast he could run. He had just had victory (he thinking he was the best runner in the world). He ran when he was little. He ran as he grew older. And every time he ran, he bragged about himself to the other animals. He especially bragged to the tortoise because he ran so superior to such a slow creature. Tired of hearing him boast, the wise tortoise challenged the hare to a race. The hare agreed at once, thinking that he would beat the tortoise easily. All of the animals gathered silently at the finish line to watch the race.

As soon as the race started, the hare dashed ahead. He ran down the road fast, without stopping. He proudly decided to pause for a rest. "How do you expect to win this race when you are walking along at such a slow pace?" he said proudly to the tortoise.

The hare stretched himself and lazily went to a tree and fell asleep. Thinking, "There is nothing of race to win, rest, and enjoyment. That tortoise will never beat me!" the tortoise walked slowly past the hare. He walked and walked. He persevered until he got to the end of the race.

The animals cheered as they saw the tortoise reach the finish line. "Tortoise, you are the winner!" they cheered. The hare found the cheering and woke with a start. He started to run as a rabbit toward the finishing line, but it was too late. The tortoise had already crossed the line. "It's not fair," complained the hare. "I was asleep. We have to do the race again." But this time, no one listened to the hare. After that, the hare always pretended himself "Don't show off about your speedy pace. Slow and steady wins the race."

Keep trying, even when things seem hard.
