New Syllabus In Ghana:

Education in Ghana Betty Grace Stein George,1976 Ghana Gazette Ghana,1976 Ghana Today ,1957

Dilemmas of Culture in African Schools Cati Coe,2005-11 In working to build a sense of nationhood Ghana has focused on many social engineering projects the most meaningful and fascinating of which has been the state's effort to create a national culture through its schools As Cati Coe reveals in Dilemmas of Culture in African Schools this effort has created an unusual paradox while Ghana encourages its educators to teach about local cultural traditions those traditions are transformed as they are taught in school classrooms The state version of culture now taught by educators has become objectified and nationalized vastly different from local traditions Coe identifies the state's limitations in teaching cultural knowledge and discusses how Ghanaians negotiate the tensions raised by the competing visions of modernity that nationalism and Christianity have created She reveals how cultural curricula affect authority relations in local social organizations between teachers and students between Christians and national elite and between children and elders and raises several questions about educational processes state society relations the production of knowledge and the making of Ghana's citizenry

Primary Mathematics Pedagogy at the Intersection of Education Reform, Policy, and Culture Sarah

Murray,Princess Allotey,2021-11-29 This volume provides an in depth comparative examination of how primary mathematics education is influenced by national education reform policy local resources and culture in three different countries By drawing on first hand observations and interviews as well as analysis of policy documents and learning resources the book considers the viability of transferring best practices in primary mathematics education across global contexts Three diverse countries Ghana the US and Singapore are explored Similarities and differences are highlighted and the influence of national and regional initiatives related to pedagogical strategies teacher education and cultural expectations are considered to offer an insightful examination of how best practices might be shared across borders This book will benefit researchers academics and postgraduate scholars with an interest in international and comparative education mathematics and educational policy Those with a specialization in primary mathematics education including pedagogy and teacher preparation will also benefit from this book The Routledge Companion to Postcolonial African Historiography Thula Simpson,Immanuel R.

Harisch,2025-05-09 The Routledge Companion to Postcolonial African Historiography explores history's fortunes in Modern Africa south of the Sahara from the discipline's Golden Age as a handmaiden in struggles against colonialism to difficult decades when its survival has been threatened by capricious political and economic conditions and the uncertain present where the continent's historians struggle to justify their value to frequently sceptical publics In exploring the discipline's practical role in past struggles for African emancipation the volume speaks directly to these challenging but changing circumstances The chapters feature contributions from leading experts on historiographical traditions of different regions of the continent They collectively demonstrate how the process of instrumentalizing the past to advance lay struggles has influenced the choices historians have made regarding sources methodology interpretation audiences and platforms This practical application has strongly shaped the diverse forms that African historiography has assumed as reflected in this book The themes discussed offer a platform for inserting Africa into comparative studies of global historiographical traditions whilst also contributing to contemporary debates on decolonization In offering accessible insights from leading historians this is an essential handbook for students and scholars of African history and historiography as well as all those interested in postcolonial studies

Routes of Remembrance Bayo Holsey, 2008-06 Over the past fifteen years visitors from the African diaspora have flocked to Cape Coast and Elmina two towns in Ghana whose chief tourist attractions are the castles and dungeons where slaves were imprisoned before embarking for the New World This desire to commemorate the Middle Passage contrasts sharply with the silence that normally cloaks the subject within Ghana Why do Ghanaians suppress the history of enslavement And why is this history expressed so differently on the other side of the Atlantic Routes of Remembrance tackles these questions by analyzing the slave trade s absence from public versions of coastal Ghanaian family and community histories its troubled presentation in the country s classrooms and nationalist narratives and its elaboration by the transnational tourism industry Bayo Holsey discovers that in the past African involvement in the slave trade was used by Europeans to denigrate local residents and this stigma continues to shape the way Ghanaians imagine their historical past Today however due to international attention and the curiosity of young Ghanaians the slave trade has at last entered the public sphere transforming it from a stigmatizing history to one that holds the potential to contest global inequalities Holsey s study will be crucial to anyone involved in the global debate over how the slave trade endures in history and in memory

Junior Graphic Mavis Kitcher (Mrs), 2002-11-20 Introduction to Education in Ghana Okechukwu C. Abosi, Joseph Brookman-Amisssah, 1992 Modern Mathematics Dirk De Bock, 2023-03-08 The international New Math developments between about 1950 through 1980 are regarded by many mathematics educators and education historians as the most historically important development in curricula of the twentieth century It attracted the attention of local and international politicians of teachers and of parents and influenced the teaching and learning of mathematics at all levels kindergarten to college graduate in many nations After garnering much initial support it began to attract criticism But as Bill Jacob and the late Jerry Becker show in Chapter 17 some of the effects became entrenched This volume edited by Professor Dirk De Bock of Belgium provides an outstanding overview of the New Math modern mathematics movement Chapter authors provide exceptionally high quality analyses of the rise of the movement and of subsequent developments within a range of nations The first few chapters show how the initial leadership came from mathematicians in European nations and in the United States of America The background leaders in Europe were Caleb Gattegno and members of a mysterious group of mainly French pure mathematicians who since the 1930s had published under the name of a fictitious Nicolas Bourbaki In the United States there emerged during the 1950s various attempts to improve U S mathematics curricula and teaching especially in secondary schools and colleges This side of the story climaxed in 1957 when the Soviet Union succeeded in launching Sputnik the first satellite Undoubtedly this is a landmark publication in education The foreword was written by Professor Bob Moon one of a few other scholars to have written on the New Math from an international perspective The final epilogue chapter by Professor Geert Vanpaemel a historian draws together the overall thrust of the volume and makes links with the general history of curriculum development especially in science education including recent globalization trends
