The New Zealanders In France [Illustrated Edition] Colonel H Stewart C.M.G. D.S.O. M.C., 2014-06-13 Contains over 100 maps photos and illustrations Formed in Egypt in March 1916 the division arrived in France a month later It acquired an elite status fought on the Somme at Messines and Third Ypres 49 000 casualties ten VCs A very fine and comprehensive history As may be expected this is a remarkably comprehensive account of one of the finest divisions of the BEF of which Earl Haig wrote No Division in France built up for itself a finer reputation whether for the gallantry of its conduct in battle or for the excellence of its behaviour out of the line Its record does honour to the land from which it came and to the Empire for which it fought A German assessment of the division was seen in an Intelligence document captured at Hebuterne in July 1918 A particularly good assault Division Its characteristics are a very strongly developed individual self confidence or enterprise characteristic of the colonial British and a specially pronounced hatred of the Germans The NZ Division of this history was formed in Egypt in March 1916 The infantry consisted of two battalions each of the Auckland Canterbury Otago and Wellington Regiments and four battalions of the NZ Rifle Brigade all the divisional troops artillery engineers medical etc were NZ units The GOC was Major General Sir A H Russell promoted from command of a brigade of the composite NZ and Australian Division he was to be the only

commander of the division The NZ Division arrived in France in April 1916 and it remained on the Western front throughout the war The author commanded the 2nd Battalion Canterbury Regiment and in preparing this official account he has drawn on all available material War Diaries Operation Orders Intelligence summaries Narratives of operations prepared at Corps level and below Honours and Awards recommendations Divisional reports and correspondence personal diaries and papers and Haig's Despatches N M Print Ed AUSTRALIA AT WAR - 20 Illustrations about soldiers lives at the Somme and Ypres Will Dyson, 2018-09-13 Herein are 20 illustrations made during the winters at Ypres and on the Somme by Will Dyson even though he was wounded in their making Dyson 1880 1938 the official illustrator for the Australian Imperial Force AIF They reflect the misery and the depression of the material conditions of these campaigns than it does any of the soldiers exaltations or the typical cheerfulness which accompanied the Anzacs It is always difficult for a creative person like an artist to remain positive when faced with the horrors of war but especially the horrors that WWI the first modern war brought However it is the soul rather than the body that he has drawn here drawn out in long fantastic lines In any case the lightest wildest or even crudest sketch scratched down by Dyson has always had more of the true grip of gravity than the whole of the Royal Academy Indeed there is something significant in all that white light and sharp shadow which belongs to such dramatic scenes and is so favourable to the art of black and white There is even something of allegory in that awful and empty daylight in which armies live so often without a stick of roof or a rag of curtain All the soldiers in a great war are historical characters but these are rather specially standing not against court or camp but only against the sky They are under a light which will indeed prove eternal even as compared with other historic groups their contribution has been written into the annals of history and will continue to be known forevermore 10% of the net sale will be donated to charities by the publisher
