From beliefs to dynamic affect systems in mathematics education Birgit Pepin,Bettina Roesken-Winter,2014-10-21 This book connects seminal work in affect research and moves forward to provide a developing perspective on affect as the decisive variable of the mathematics classroom. In particular, the book contributes and investigates new conceptual frameworks and new methodological tools in affect research and introduces the new field of collectives to explore affect systems in diverse settings. Investigated by internationally renowned scholars, the book is built up in three dimensions. The first part of the book provides an overview of selected theoretical frames and theoretical lenses to study the mosaic of relationships and interactions in the field of affect. In the second part, the theory is enriched by empirical research studies and provides relevant findings in terms of developing deeper understandings of individuals and collectives' affective systems in mathematics education. Here, pupil and teacher beliefs and affect systems are examined more closely. The final part investigates the methodological tools used and needed in affect research. How can the different methodological designs contribute data which help us to develop better understandings of teachers and pupils' affect systems for teaching and learning mathematics and in which ways are knowledge and affect related?
