Government Deals are Funded, Not Sold Gene Moran, 2023-11-28 As identified by Bloomberg Government the best performing federal contractors all lobby Congress We might guess that intuitively The common perception of Washington DC as an insider's game persists and it makes sense that the winners lobby However focusing only on best performing contractors limits the view of what unfolds through congressional lobbying or more importantly could unfold for even more companies if they only recognized that they also have access to Congress The tools of congressional influence are available to every company yet the overwhelming majority of federal contractors eschew the opportunity to lobby Congress Sadly it's not just that companies often don't know how It's worse they don't know why lobbying Congress can be helpful Defense represents the most significant portion of the federal budget annually reviewed and approved by Congress As such it's a valuable case study to understand what may contribute to a concentration of winners that garner federal contracts Any company can learn by understanding more about lobbying in the defense industry The inability or unwillingness to integrate lobbying into a sales strategy stems from hubris ignorance and lack of imagination Thinking I've got this and relying on their wits and narrow networks too many defense executives struggle to gain real traction and consistently win large contracts The result The biggest winners aggregate at the top of the defense industrial base pyramid while the hundreds of thousands of others are left to wonder what just happened and why it's so hard This book focuses on those who do not lobby It's almost too easy to conclude the system is unfair unlikely to change and populated by well connected insiders who move through the revolving door Digging a little deeper this book reveals that the real challenge to more democratized access to Congress is within our reach if we could only see it

Grabill, Sarah Gretter, Erik Skogsberg, 2022-03-01 It's time to design the next iteration of higher education There is no question that higher education faces significant challenges Most of today's universities aren't prepared to tackle issues like demographic change the continued defunding of public education cost pressures and the opportunities and challenges of educational technologies Then of course there is the shock of the COVID 19 pandemic which will reverberate for years and may very well usher higher education into an era of significant structural change Some critics argue that a premium should be placed on change functions that is to say on creativity innovation organizational learning and change management Yet few institutions of higher education have functions focused on thoughtful iterative problem solving and opportunity identification The authors of Design for Change in Higher Education argue that we must imagine and actively make our way to new institutional forms They assert that design a practical art that is conceptually rich and visible in its concreteness must become a core internal competency of the university They propose one grounded in the practical experiences of a specific educational design organization Michigan State University's Hub for Innovation in Learning and Technology which all three authors have helped to run The Hub was created to address issues of participation impact and scale in moving learning innovations from the individual to the collective and from the classroom to the institution Framing each chapter around a case study of design practice in higher education the book uses that case study as the foundation on which to build design theory for higher education It is complemented by an online playbook featuring tactics that can be used and adapted by others interested in facilitating their own design work Touching on learning experience design LXD as an increasingly critical practice the authors also develop a constructivist view of designing conversations A playbook that grounds theory in practice Design for Change in Higher Education is aimed at faculty staff and students engaged in the important work of imagining new forms of education
