QUESTION	ANSWER
How does the brain work?	1st part the brain is made up of billions of neurons that are connected to each other. The brain is the control center of the body, and it is responsible for all of the functions that we perform. 2nd part The brain is divided into two halves, the left and right hemispheres. Each hemisphere is responsible for different functions. The left hemisphere is responsible for language, logic, and mathematics. The right hemisphere is responsible for creativity, art, and music.
How does the brain control the body's movements?	1st part The brain controls the body's movements through the motor cortex. The motor cortex is a part of the brain that is responsible for planning and executing movements. 2nd part The motor cortex sends signals to the muscles through the spinal cord. The spinal cord is a long, thin structure that runs down the back of the body. It is responsible for transmitting signals between the brain and the rest of the body.
How does the brain process information from the senses?	1st part The brain processes information from the senses through the sensory cortex. The sensory cortex is a part of the brain that is responsible for receiving and processing information from the senses. 2nd part The sensory cortex sends signals to the brain through the spinal cord. The brain then processes this information and sends signals back to the body to respond to the stimuli.
How does the brain control the body's internal organs?	1st part The brain controls the body's internal organs through the autonomic nervous system. The autonomic nervous system is a part of the nervous system that is responsible for controlling the body's internal organs. 2nd part The autonomic nervous system sends signals to the internal organs through the spinal cord. The internal organs then respond to these signals by performing their functions.
