Computer Science and Mathematical Logic KTIML of the Faculty of Mathematics and Physics of Charles University in Prague. It was supported in part by the European Association for Theoretical Computer Science EATCS and the European Research Consortium for Informatics and Mathematics ERCIM. Traditionally the MFCS symposia encourage high quality research in all branches of theoretical computer science. Ranging in scope from automata formal languages data structures algorithms and computational geometry to complexity theory models of computation and applications including computational biology cryptography security and artificial intelligence the conference offers a unique opportunity to researchers from diverse areas to meet and present their results to a general audience. The scientific program of this year's MFCS took place in the lecture halls of the recently reconstructed building of the Faculty of Mathematics and Physics in the historical center of Prague with the famous Prague Castle and other celebrated historical monuments in sight. The view from the windows was a challenging competition for the speakers in the fight for the attention of the audience. But we did not fear the result. Due to the unusually tough competition for this year's MFCS the admitted presentations certainly attracted considerable interest. The conference program and the proceedings consisted of 60 contributed papers selected by the Program Committee from a total of 167 submissions.

The Common Law of Intellectual Property Catherine Ng, Lionel Bently, Giuseppina D'Agostino, 2010-08-25. This collection of essays was written in honour of David Vaver who recently retired as Professor of Intellectual Property and Information Technology Law and Director of the Oxford Intellectual Property Research Centre at the University of Oxford. The essays written by some of the world's leading academics, practitioners and judges in the field of intellectual property law take as their starting point the common assumption that the patent, copyright and trade mark laws within members of the common law family (Australia, Canada, Israel, Singapore, South Africa, the United Kingdom, the United States and so on) share some sort of common tradition. The contributors examine in relation to particular topics the extent to which such a shared view of the field exists in the face of other forces that are producing divergence. The essays discuss inter alia issues concerning court practices, the medical treatment exception, non-obviousness and sufficiency in patent law, originality and exceptions in copyright law, unfair competition law and cross-border goodwill and dilution in trade mark law.
