November 2013 Ib Economics Mark Scheme:

Seeking Adam Smith: Finding The Shadow Curriculum Of Business Eli P Cox Iii, 2017-03-17 Seeking Adam Smith provides a fascinating insider's explanation for why business school faculty members including the author bear some responsibility for the highly destructive corporate practices evident throughout the first sixteen years of the 21st century. Since the Great Recession, substantial resources and effort have been expended to incorporate ethics and corporate social responsibility into business curricula. The effectiveness of these efforts has been limited because they have little impact on the technical and core business courses serving as the gateway to the highest paying jobs. Students and practitioners may be led to conclude falsely that the business world is an ethics-free zone. Seeking Adam Smith demonstrates that greed is a highly destructive motive for conducting business and the notion that greed is good is nowhere to be found in the Wealth of Nations despite claims by some of the world's leading economists. Cox offers alternative economic perspectives that are more realistic and less prone to misuse than those permeating the current business curricula. Seeking Adam Smith also contains a forward written by Thomas J Ward who served as Senior Managing Partner of Bear Stearns during its demise and an afterword by Sherron Watkins, Enron whistle-blower and Time Person of the Year 2002.
