Transportation Systems Planning Konstadinos G. Goulias, 2002-12-26 Transportation engineering and transportation planning are two sides of the same coin aiming at the design of an efficient infrastructure and service to meet the growing needs for accessibility and mobility Many well designed transport systems that meet these needs are based on a solid understanding of human behavior Since transportation systems Methods and Models in Transport and Telecommunications Aura Reggiani, Laurie A. Schintler, 2006-03-30 One aspect of the new economy is a transition to a networked society and the emergence of a highly interconnected interdependent and complex system of networks to move people goods and information An example of this is the increasing reliance of networked systems e g air transportation networks electric power grid maritime transport etc on telecommunications and information infrastructure Many of the networks that evolved today have an added complexity in that they have both a spatial structure i e they are located in physical space but also an a spatial dimension brought on largely by their dependence on information technology They are also often just one component of a larger system of geographically integrated and overlapping networks operating at different spatial levels An understanding of these complexities is imperative for the design of plans and policies that can be used to optimize the efficiency performance and safety of transportation telecommunications and other networked systems In one sense technological advances along with economic forces that encourage the clustering of activities in space to reduce transaction costs have led to more efficient network structures At the same time the very properties that make these networks more efficient have also put them at a greater risk for becoming disconnected or significantly disrupted when super connected nodes are removed either intentionally or through a targeted attack A Guidebook for Forecasting Freight Transportation Demand National Cooperative Highway Research Program, 1997 Intermodal Technical Assistance for Transportation Planners and Policymakers , 1994 Describes available tools studies conferences courses reports data and quantitative models that can help planners and policymakers respond to the requirements of the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991 ISTEA and the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990 CAAA This report is presented in three major sections Categorized Listings technical assistance products sorted by principal subject category Resource Centers a list of DOT sponsored sources of information and assistance on intermodal transportation and Indices by
