Design Charts for Open-channel Flow United States. Federal Highway Administration, 1979 The design of a highway drainage channel to carry a given discharge is accomplished in two parts The first part of the design involves the computation of a channel section which will carry the design discharge on the available slope This chapter briefly discusses the principles of flow in open channels and the use of the Manning equation for computing the channel capacity The second part of the design is the determination of the degree of protection required to prevent erosion in the drainage channel This can be done by computing the velocity in the channel at the design discharge using the Manning equation and comparing the calculated velocity with that permissible for the type of channel lining used A change in the type of channel lining will require a change in channel size unless both linings have the same roughness coefficient Hydraulic Design Series United States. Bureau of Public Roads, 1961 Design Charts for Open-channel Flow United States. Bureau of Public Roads, 1961
