

JANUARY ... DOES IT BRING YOU JOY?

- 1 January is the time for renewal on many fronts. It's the time of the year to re-evaluate everything. If something or someone doesn't bring you joy, it's pretty pointless carrying on with it. If we want the best, we must do our best. We must keep our family space safe and secure so that we are thriving as a people and as a nation. 5
- 2 In order to live their best lives, people are spreading themselves thinner and thinner with multiple streams of income. In the process we earn more but live less, we lose our focus of what is important.
- 3 With social media, keeping up with other Instagrammers are having a devastating effect on self-perception. Everything appears to be real perfect, but the fabric of our society is frazzled. Use January to take stock and start navigating new ways of doing things. Instead of multiple streams of sole sessions, travel more, and connect with people and places that bring you joy. 10

Masters Sculling Nancy Churchill, 2020-09-01 Masters scullers range in age from Grade AA 21 in the US or Grade A 27 in the UK to Grade M 89 plus. Although diverse in age, these athletes all have one thing in common: they are each unique. This book partners with each individual athlete to achieve performance improvements based on their own aspirations, technical skill, and fitness level. The focus is on understanding and efficiency both in the acquisition of skills and training. The dynamic technique described offers scullers a high performance sculling approach carefully tailored to support a Masters sculler's long term career. Illustrated with superb colour photographs, diagrams, and a wealth of examples, coverage includes individual assessment of an athlete's sculling skills, flexibility, and aerobic fitness; compilation and application of evidence-based data; formation of highly individual training programmes; experiments for athletes to explore their connectedness, versatility, and speed; and finally, race strategies and plans for competitive athletes. Based on the athlete's needs and aspirations, Masters Sculling provides you with the knowledge and skills to build an individual training plan that minimizes injury risk, achieves continuous improvement, and fosters a lifelong enjoyment of the sport.

Performance Costume Sofia Pantouvaki, Peter McNeil, 2020-12-10 Costume is an active agent for performance; making it a material object that embodies ideas shaped through collaborative creative work. A new focus in recent years on research in the area of costume has connected this practice in vital and new ways with theories of the body and embodiment, design practices, artistic, and other forms of collaboration. Costume, like fashion and dress, is now viewed as an area of dynamic social significance and not simply as a passive reflector of a pre-conceived social state or practice. This book offers new approaches to the study of costume as well as fresh insights into the better understood frames of historical, theoretical, practice-based, and archival research into costume for performance. This anthology draws on the experience of a global group of established researchers as well as emerging voices. Below is a list of just some of the things it achieves:

1. Introduces diverse perspectives, innovative new research methods, and approaches for researching design and the costumed body in performance.
2. Contributes towards a new understanding of how costume actually performs in time and space.
3. Offers new insights into existing practices as well as creating a space of connection between practitioners and researchers from design, the humanities, and social sciences.

Application of Visual Data in K-16 Science Classrooms Kevin D. Finson, Jon Pedersen, 2015-03-01 This book examines visual data use with students PK-16 as well as in pre-service in-service science teacher preparation. Each chapter includes discussion about the current state of the art with respect to science classroom application and utilization of the particular visual data targeted by the author's discussion and explanation about the targeted visual data as applied by the author in his/her classroom; use of visual data as a diagnostic tool; its use as an assessment tool; and discussion of implications for science teaching and/or science teacher preparation. Although the body of research and practice in this field is growing, there remains a gap in the literature about clearly explicating the use of visual data in the science classroom. A growing body of literature discusses what visual data are although this topic is still viewed as being at the beginning of its development in educators thinking and there are some scattered examples of studies exploring the use of visual data in science classrooms although those studies have not necessarily clearly identified their foci as visual data per se As interest and attention has become more focused on visual data a logical progression of questioning has been how visual data are actually applied in the science classroom whether it be early elementary college or somewhere in between Visual data applications of interest to the science education community include how it is identified how it can be used with students and how students can generate it themselves how it can be employed as a diagnostic tool in concept development and how it can be utilized as an assessment tool This book explores that as well as a variety of pragmatic ways to help science educators more effectively utilize visual data and representations in their instruction

Comparative analysis of livelihood recovery in the post-conflict periods - Karamoja and Northern Uganda Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, Feinstein International Center - Tufts University, 2019-11-13 This paper examines the parallel but separate trajectories of peace building recovery and transformation that have occurred over the past 15 years in northern Acholi and Lango sub regions and northeastern Karamoja sub region Uganda While keeping in mind the key differences in these areas we highlight the similarities in the nature of recovery the continuing challenges and the need for external actors to keep in mind the ongoing tensions and vulnerability that could undermine the tenuous peace The initial peace processes in both northern Uganda and Karamoja were largely top down in nature with little participation from the affected populations In Karamoja the Ugandan military started a forced disarmament campaign in 2006 This was the second such effort in five years and was top down and heavy handed Although many observers gave it little chance of success by 2013 large scale cattle raids were infrequent and road ambushes were almost non existent Critically local initiatives eventually emerged in parallel to the top down disarmament efforts Prime amongst these were local resolutions adopted in 2013 2014 that created a system of compensation for thefts enforced by peace committees In northern Uganda a top down politically negotiated peace process between the Lord s Resistance Army LRA and the Government of Uganda ended two decades of fighting in 2006 The internally displaced person IDP camps were disbanded and thousands of displaced people returned to their rural homes some because they no other option once assistance in the camps ceased One of the most important factors in recovery in Karamoja has been the growth of markets Traders were reluctant to bring wares to the region during the period of insecurity and hence goods were few and prices high Today most trading centres host markets on a weekly basis and shops have consistent inventories In northern Uganda the biggest driver of recovery has been the return of displaced people to their homes and the resumption of farming By 2011 crop production had resumed its pre conflict status as the primary livelihood in the region In both locations however engagement in markets is limited and many people remain economically marginalized Challenges to recovery and long term stability are similar across the two locations Both northern Uganda and Karamoja continue to struggle with food insecurity and malnutrition despite the massive influx of development funds improved security and expansion of markets In northern Uganda the conflict continues to influence household livelihoods Households that have a member who experienced war crimes are consistently worse off These continuing problems with food security and nutrition call into question many assumptions about recovery and development In particular the idea that peace will bring a natural bounce in economic and household well being does not appear to hold up in these cases Additional structural challenges to recovery in both locations include climate change and environmental degradation poor governance and corruption limited opportunities for decent work livelihood transformation and loss and conflict over land These factors reinforce each other and make it extremely difficult for average households to develop sustainable and secure livelihoods External interventions often fail to take into account the local priorities and realities in these areas Many programmes are place based or focus on rural areas but the population is in flux This is especially true for young people In addition while many people are doing much better than they were 15 years ago others are being pushed out of pastoralism and are struggling to achieve diversified and sustainable livelihoods Overall while the recent trajectories of recovery in Karamoja and northern Uganda are remarkably similar the context livelihoods and challenges in each location are importantly unique National actors should not seek to derive combined approaches or policies that lump together these two areas In both cases the lived reality history and experiences of the population should be central to designing appropriate effective and sustainable responses to the ongoing obstacles to a stable peace and full recovery

Leveled Reading, Leveled Lives Timothy Shanahan, 2025-07-28 An engaging and evidence based examination of how reading instruction has been misinterpreted and misapplied for decades and how to right the course to improve reading skills for all students In Leveled Reading Leveled Lives leading literacy expert Timothy Shanahan curates a lively tour of the history of reading instruction in the United States arguing that the most popular reading instruction method is failing students and suppressing their literacy achievement He breaks down the reasons why teachers and researchers alike have favored this accepted wisdom known as instructional level theory in US schools over the past five decades and presents a compelling case for a new way forward that will bolster students reading skills Today it is not uncommon to find students in a fourth grade classroom reading books suitable for third second or even first graders Teachers suggest books to students at their deemed instructional levels but how these instructional levels are determined is suspect With a comprehensive critical analysis of instructional level pedagogy Shanahan exposes its shaky foundations and shows how faulty research findings have become so entrenched He gathers an extensive body of research studies that overwhelmingly contradict the instructional level theory and offers an evidence based consideration of how educators must instead use grade level reading to bring about maximum learning gains This seminal book concludes with practical advice for implementing grade level reading instruction including detailed descriptions of the types of instruction and scaffolding needed to increase students reading achievement from teaching decoding and challenging texts to scaffolding reading to maintaining motivation Shanahan asserts that a better approach can ensure that all students have an opportunity to leave high school with reading abilities commensurate with their personal social civic and economic goals

Capital and the Common Good Georgia Levenson Keohane,2016-09-27 Despite social and economic advances around the world poverty and disease persist exacerbated by the mounting challenges of climate change natural disasters political conflict mass migration and economic inequality While governments commit to addressing these challenges traditional public and philanthropic dollars are not enough Here innovative finance has shown a way forward by borrowing techniques from the world of finance we can raise capital for social investments today Innovative finance has provided polio vaccines to children in the DRC crop insurance to farmers in India pay as you go solar electricity to Kenyans and affordable housing and transportation to New Yorkers It has helped governmental commercial and philanthropic resources meet the needs of the poor and underserved and build a more sustainable and inclusive prosperity Capital and the Common Good shows how market failure in one context can be solved with market solutions from another an expert in securitization bundles future development aid into bonds to pay for vaccines today an entrepreneur turns a mobile phone into an array of financial services for the unbanked and policy makers adapt pay for success models from the world of infrastructure to human services like early childhood education maternal health and job training Revisiting the successes and missteps of these efforts Georgia Levenson Keohane argues that innovative finance is as much about incentives and sound decision making as it is about money When it works innovative finance gives us the tools motivation and security to invest in our shared future

Globalized Finance and Varieties of Capitalism H. van Zon,2016-05-01 Hans van Zon analyzes the financialization of developed capitalism and argues that the emergence of finance as a dominant force has contributed to the relative decline of the West He demonstrates that the neo liberal model is inherently unstable and undermines capitalist economies which can only function if they are embedded in institutions that are non or even pre capitalist He shows how a toxic combination of financialization corporate globalization and a deregulated and parasitic financial industry have led to structural economic stagnation in both the USA and the greater part of the EU

Post-Colonial Trajectories in the Caribbean

Rosemarijn Hoefte, Matthew L. Bishop, Peter Clegg, 2016-11-18 This book compares and contrasts the contemporary development experience of neighbouring geographically similar countries with an analogous history of exploitation but by three different European colonisers Studying the so called Three Guianas Guyana Suriname and French Guiana offers a unique opportunity to look for similarities and differences in their contemporary patterns of development particularly as they grapple with new and complex shifts in the regional hemispheric and global context Shaped decisively by their respective historical experiences Guyana in tandem with the laissez faire approach of Britain toward its Caribbean colonies was decolonised relatively early in 1966 and has maintained a significant degree of distance from London The hold of The Hague over Suriname however endured well after independence in 1975 French Guiana by contrast was decolonised much sooner than both of its neighbours in 1946 but this was through full integration thus cementing its place within the political economy and administrative structures of France itself Traditionally isolated from the Caribbean the wider Latin American continent and from each other today a range of similar issues such as migration resource extraction infrastructure development and energy security are coming to bear on their societies and provoking deep and complex changes

Nutritional influences on human neurocognitive functioning Michael Smith, Andrew Scholey, 2014-11-04 You are what you eat It's a saying that we've all heard time and time again The notion that good nutrition is essential for adequate growth and sound physical wellbeing is very well established Further in recent years there has been an overwhelming increase in research dedicated to better understanding how nutritional factors influence cognition and behaviour For example several studies have suggested that higher foetal exposure to omega 3 fatty acids and B vitamins such as folate promotes neurodevelopment B vitamins may also play a role in neurocognitive functioning in later life with some suggestion that lower vitamin B levels are associated with increased risk of dementia although randomised controlled trials investigating B vitamin supplementation as a cognitive enhancer in the elderly have provided inconclusive evidence as to the benefits of such therapy for dementia In fact the nutritional underpinnings of Alzheimer s disease and other disorders of cognitive ageing is becoming a much researched topic In addition consumption of several other foods has been found to convey more acute cognitively enhancing effects For example ingestion of carbohydrates e g glucose caffeine resveratrol and several nutraceutical herbal extracts has been associated with short term improvements in cognitive performance Beyond specific micronutrients and macronutrients the current literature seems to support anecdotal evidence that consumption of a balanced breakfast is crucial to various measures of school performance including attention in the classroom What is clear from this emerging literature is that the relationship between nutritional status and neurocognitive functioning at various stages of the lifespan is complex An aim of this Research Topic is to bring together some recent empirical findings reviews and commentaries of the literature to date and opinion pieces relating to future directions for this burgeoning field

Responses to Climate Change in the Cold

Biomes Hans J. De Boeck,Erika Hiltbrunner,Anke Jentsch,Vigdis Vandvik,2019-06-05 Climate change is thought to be especially relevant to ecosystems in the cold biomes Observed warming has been higher in cold climates through various positive feedbacks especially declining snow and ice cover and climate projections indicate further rapid warming in the decades to come Temperature change can have profound impacts in cold biome ecosystems either directly in terms of impacts on physiology or growing season length or indirectly via changes in nutrient cycling The regions focused on here are the sub arctic and the sub alpine areas both characterized by short growing seasons and low annual temperatures but with different radiation environments depending on latitude Climate change can have impacts in all seasons Increased spring temperatures can accelerate snowmelt leading to an earlier onset of the growing season while warmer summers may stimulate primary productivity through temperatures closer to metabolic optima and or increased mineralization rates Winter warming can lead to the vegetation being damaged because of exposure to harsh frost without insulating snow cover In all of this concurrent changes in precipitation also play an important role increased snowfall can buffer warming induced advances in snowmelt a higher ratio of rain to snow can greatly accelerate snowmelt in winter and spring and summer drought may reverse growth stimulation by warming directly drought stress or indirectly e g impaired nutrient uptake Micro climate is crucial in these systems and requires particular attention as it can vary widely across the landscape creating different growing environments in the space of a few meters or even less Interest in cold region responses to climate change does not only arise from the fact that they harbor unique ecosystems that may be endangered but also because they store large amounts of carbon that may be released under climate change However research is challenging because of the remoteness of many of these areas and the harsh conditions during much of the year In spite of this some studies have been carried out over an extensive period spanning decades and yielding information on for example plant community reorganization including invasions and changes in phenology above and or belowground Other studies focus on shorter term effects such as impacts of heat waves late frosts or other anomalous weather including longer term after effects that may differ drastically from other regions because of the short growing season in cold climates Ultimately models are used to predict future changes in vegetation along latitudinal or elevational gradients although phenology and microclimatic variation may pose particular challenges Contributions to this Research Topic focus on climate change encompassing both changes in the mean gradual warming and variability heat waves altered precipitation distribution in cold biomes The Topic contains reports on observed changes or events but also research making use of experimentally imposed environmental changes The focus is varied including phenology physiology soil and vegetation science and biogeochemistry with the aim of providing a comprehensive overview of observed and expected responses to climate change in cold biome ecosystems Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights Eibe H. Riedel, Gilles Giacca, Christophe Golay, 2014-03 Economic social and cultural rights are protected by an international covenant recently amended by the optional protocol which allows individuals to bring rights violations before a UN committee This book addresses how successfully these rights are implemented and safeguarded worldwide assessing the key challenges to their protection Generational Diversity at Work Emma Parry, 2017-09-29 Over the past decade much attention has been paid to the apparent differences in consumption preferences or workplace attitudes and behaviours across generations Within Western economies such as the USA UK and Australia it is commonly assumed that there are now four generations in the workplace namely Veterans born 1925 1942 Baby Boomers 1943 1960 Generation X 1961 1981 and Generation Y 1982 2000 The concept of generational differences at work is one that has recently been adopted by practitioners as a basis on which to design human resource management and career management practices However there has been some concern in academic circles about the validity of the notion of generations and the evidence base that supports it There is therefore a need for new perspectives and methodological approaches to investigating generational differences at work in order to establish the validity and value of generations as an axis of diversity Generational Diversity at Work New Research Perspectives will address this need by presenting and discussing research into generational diversity that adopts a range of new theoretical perspectives or methodological approaches This book is designed as a first step in addressing the need to critically examine the theoretical and empirical basis for generational differences and to provide some new empirical data in this area Surgery for Recurrent Soft Tissue Sarcoma Ruming Zhang, 2020-04-09 This book addresses surgical management for recurrent soft tissue sarcomas RSTS based on a wealth of clinical cases With aim to reduce recurrence rate a surgical strategy of barrier resection plus repair reconstruction referring to natural barriers in human body for enhancing curative effect is presented in details The first part introduces the general theory of surgical treatment for RSTS The second part is a portfolio of clinical cases showing the essential of the surgical strategy from hundreds of cases with tumour of different anatomical sites Each case report is composed of detailed medical history radiographic images and operational photos It will help readers to make proper decisions on the basis of specific purposes This book will be of benefit to oncologists orthopaedic surgeons general surgeon plastic surgeons and medical students
