political science criminology literature sociology and architecture While the opening contributions reflect on establishing design principles and architectural methodologies for ethical consultation and collaboration with communities historically marginalised and exploited by law the central chapters explore the textures and affects of built forms and the spaces between examining the disjuncture between design intention and use and investigating the impact of architecture and the design of space The collection finishes with contemplations of the very real significance of material presence or absence in courtroom spaces and what this might mean for justice Courthouse Architecture Design and Social Justice provides tools for those engaged in creating and reflecting on ethical design and building use and deepens the dialogue across disciplinary boundaries towards further collaborative work in the field It also exists as a new resource for research and teaching facilitating undergraduate critical thought about the ways in which design enhances and restricts access to justice
