- sometimes they're referred to as that, some think they're the same thing, but they're not, they're different things, appropriate
- primary caregivers consent this question, usually the physicians in the field said yes, but said that informed consent only with the physicians is important
- for safety reasons, the most important, you have to sign off the research protocol that you have the informed consent that consent, giving appropriate attention to the fact that the research is not the only way to do it, but it's not the only way to do it
