Act 2: Personal Response & Review Guide

the first depicting Juliet that he has been asked for "Queen Mab," "the fairest child" who "sits in a silken couch" made of "empty husks" and who "presents" ideas to their "changelous" senses. "Mab" is the spirit of sleeping women. In this way, like Mercutio, Romeo is disappointed and vivid imagination to prompt Romeo and others to look through their noses. Mercutio realizes that dreaming about Rosaline is foolish, as there are other many other beautiful women. Furthermore, when the usually witty nurse comes to visit the Romeo's balcony in act II, scene IV, Mercutio laughs with her.

While Mercutio has a playful and witty side, he is an honest, loyal, and different character. His allegiance lies wholeheartedly with the Montagues and especially Romeo. In the marketplace brawl earlier in act II, scene I, Mercutio grows frustrated when Romeo refuses to fight the Capulet enemy, Tybalt. He swiftly takes Romeo's place and duels with Tybalt. His sudden and ironic death results in his death—Romeo steps in to stop the fight, and Tybalt fatally stabs Mercutio under Romeo's arm. At the end, Mercutio wishes "a plague on both your houses," illustrating his ever-changing nature and his capacity for both loyalty as well as revenge.

Act 2: Personal Response Questions

Remember, we value our students' opinions and may vary. The commenting below should help you / guide you to constructively respond to students' opinions / engagement with the text:

1. Mercutio and Romeo have different views of love. Whose did you agree with more? Explain fully.

Romeo's view of love:

Romeo is one of the titular characters in Romeo and Juliet. He is a young man, a member of the Montague family, and a lover. He is the only son of Lord and Lady Montague, making him the heir. Although he is young, he is also intelligent, adventurous, and romantic. His love for Juliet throughout the play is true, though not necessarily the most mature or wise. He is also a poet, but he is overwhelmed with the idea of love. Although he looks like he is more serious than his friends, he enjoys joking with them, especially Mercutio. He is a very sensitive and double entendre, and he gets very easily annoyed by his own and his friends' remarks.

At the start of the play, Romeo's friends notice that he is not acting like himself. They want to know what Romeo is thinking. He is usually so free with himself, a character never before seen.
