

Fundamentals of statistics

8.1 Descriptive & inferential statistics

We need these because quantitative research is designed to generate numbers.

1. Descriptive statistics are the 1st stage in any quantitative analysis & concern the range of techniques that enable us to summarise our data (can be called summary statistics).

The most fundamental, important descriptive statistics are those concerned with identifying the central tendency (typical value like the average) of a set of numbers & how the remaining numbers are distributed (how much they vary) around this central/typical value.

2. Inferential statistics allows us to explore data so we can move beyond a simple description of individual variables by making inferences about the likelihood of our findings occurring.

We are concerned with identifying whether our findings (relationships/differences between one or more variables) are more likely to have occurred than by chance alone. What are the probabilities (likelihood) that the relationships/differences occurring between variables within our data set are significant & not the result of meaningless chance relationships that occur with all variables?

8.2 Measures of central tendency & dispersion

The arithmetic mean:

The most important measure of central tendency & the most familiar – shortened to the mean. It is the result of adding up all the numbers in a set & dividing by the total number of values.

$$\frac{(6 + 8 + 10 + 15 + 20 + 7)}{6} = \frac{66}{6} = 11 \text{ seconds}$$

The mathematical symbol used to represent the mean is \bar{X} called the X bar. The formula for calculating the mean is as follows:

$$\bar{X} = \frac{\sum X}{N}$$

It simply says:

1. Add up all the values
2. Divide by the total number of values in the set of numbers (N means the total number of values & the \sum means add up all the values, the $\sum x$ means add up the numbers in our set of numbers).

Statistics: Problems And Solution (Second Edition) Eryl E Bassett, J Mike Bremner, Byron Jones, Byron J T Morgan, P M North, Ian T Jolliffe, 2000-06-27 Originally published in 1986 this book consists of 100 problems in probability and statistics together with solutions and most importantly extensive notes on the solutions The level of sophistication of the problems is similar to that encountered in many introductory courses in probability and statistics At this level straightforward solutions to the problems are of limited value unless they contain informed discussion of the choice of technique used and possible alternatives The solutions in the book are therefore elaborated with extensive notes which add value to the solutions themselves The notes enable the reader to discover relationships between various statistical techniques and provide the confidence needed to tackle new problems
