between the great potential benefit that usable mobile IT could yield in the domain of emergency response and the specific design challenges for such technologies in this particularly unforgiving domain was the foundation of our decision to create a venue for researchers and practitioners from different disciplines. During this year's workshop the latest approaches and technical solutions in the area of mobile information technology for emergency response planning and execution were presented and demonstrated. We invited participation from research industry and public rescue organizations to enable an in-depth discussion of the opportunities and drawbacks of new digital technologies for emergency response. The call for papers for the second Mobile Response workshop attracted over 25 submissions from 11 different countries including international submissions from the USA, Brazil, and Japan. An international Program Committee with expertsonmobileinformation technology emergency response and emergency response equipment selected 12 submissions for presentation during the workshop. The program was completed by two outstanding keynote presentations and one invited presentation on prevailing topics of high interest to the scientific and practitioner communities.

The Mobile Revolution Dan Steinbock, 2007. In The Mobile Revolution, senior executives of the world's leading mobile vendors, operators, service providers, software giants, chip kings, media and entertainment conglomerates, publishers, music moguls, and brand marketers reveal their secrets and strategies. Nokia, Motorola, Sony, Ericsson, Qualcomm, Vodafone, Microsoft, Intel, Yahoo, New York Times, EMI, CNN, ABC, Disney, Warner Music, and Universal are just a few of the names that feature. As a result, the book abounds with inside stories of great industry successes and equally great flops, as the narrative shifts constantly between the major cities of several continents: from Helsinki and Stockholm, London and Frankfurt, Tokyo and Seoul, Beijing and Singapore, New York City and Los Angeles to Bangalore and Moscow. The Mobile Revolution is about the making of mobile markets and services worldwide, with a firm emphasis on innovation. Not just another account of technology innovation, it examines the rise of mobile services in the context of maturing and emerging mobile markets.

Enabling Technologies for Mobile Services Mika Klemettinen, 2007-09-27. The expected future evolution of mobile and wireless communication technologies will enable a whole new generation of mass market scale ubiquitous services and applications. The challenge now is to research and develop applications and services addressing the true needs of the end users and to provide engaging and sustaining added value to them. Enabling Technologies for Mobile Services takes a comprehensive approach on these challenges and provides practical guidelines on building new innovative applications and services. It shares knowledge gained from a collaborative research project where the methods and technologies were applied and utilized. This book is ideal for professionals working with enabling technologies and service architecture in companies. It will also be of interest to academics and students studying applications, services, enabling technologies, and service architectures at the universities and to anyone interested in the general issues surrounding mobile technology. The conference was aimed at bringing together researchers, scholars, academicians, and industry professionals to discuss the latest advancements and innovations in the field of computer technologies. The conference began with an opening ceremony where the chief guests and dignitaries were welcomed by the organizers. The keynote address was delivered by a renowned expert in the field of computer technologies who spoke about the importance of innovation in driving progress and growth in the industry. This was followed by technical sessions where researchers and professionals presented their papers on various topics related to computer technologies. The technical sessions covered a wide range of topics including but not limited to artificial intelligence, machine learning, data science, computer networks, security, and privacy, computer graphics, and visualization, software engineering, and emerging technologies. The presentations were well received by the audience who actively participated in the discussions and provided valuable feedback to the presenters. Apart from the technical sessions, the conference also featured a panel discussion on the topic of 'The Future of Computer Technologies'. The panel comprised experts from academia and industry who shared their insights and perspectives on the future direction of the field. The discussion covered various topics such as the impact of emerging technologies like blockchain and quantum computing, the role of artificial intelligence and machine learning in shaping the future of work, and the challenges and opportunities in ensuring the ethical use of technology. Overall, the conference provided a platform for researchers and professionals to share their ideas, insights, and experiences and to collaborate and network with their peers. The organizers thanked all the participants and sponsors for their support in making the conference a success and announced plans to host a follow-up event next year. Daily Graphic Yaw Boadu-Ayebofoh, 2006-10-14 Internet Protocol-based Emergency Services Henning Schulzrinne, Hannes Tschofenig, 2013-05-28 Written by international experts in the field, this book covers the standards, architecture, and deployment issues related to IP-based emergency services.
