Essential Readings in Management Learning Christopher Grey, Elena Antonacopoulou, 2004-09-28 This volume brings together some of the best writing published in the journal Management Learning since its re launch under this title in 1994 The selection very much reflects the mission of the journal to act as a showcase for innovative international and interdisciplinary work which covers a wide gamut of issues connected to management organizations learning and knowledge The field of management learning widely drawn in this way brings together some of the key preoccupations within several areas of management organization studies and social science more generally Learning and knowledge have become central themes within these areas for several reasons both practical and theoretical These include the way that organizational learning is seen as a key source of competitive advantage and the wider analysis that individuals and organizations now inhabit a knowledge economy Theoretically recent years have seen emerging understandings of the social significance of communities of practice whilst learning in its many manifestations is increasingly seen as being imbricated in issues of power This latter points to one of the particular areas which has been a focus for the journal namely more critically orientated approaches to management learning This collection provides readings grouped under six key headings which reflect where some of the most influential and provocative work in the field has been done over recent years namely Organizational Learning and Learning Organizations Individual Learning Critical Approaches to Management Education and Learning Pedagogical Practice Globalization and Management Learning Beyond Management Learning Along with an editorial introduction this volume will provide a unique and invaluable resource for anyone studying or researching management learning and cognate areas by bringing together some of the best peer reviewed work in the field Making Managers in Universities and Colleges Craig Prichard, 2000-06-16 This book provides an alternative means of discussing the development and significance of managers and management in universities and colleges It is particularly concerned with the way managing involves the development of different ways of talking acting and relating to people at work Yet this is often difficult and variably successful as it confronts often strong professional and occupational work identities and cultures The book provides a detailed look at the manager in contemporary further and higher education in Britain as post compulsory education has been required to operate on a more commercial basis and universities and colleges are increasingly regarded as small to medium sized enterprises It draws upon interviews with more than 70 senior post holders It explores for example the work of the traditional university vice chancellor who came to see himself as the new chief executive schooled himself in the works of international management gurus Henry Mintzberg and Tom Peters and engaged his 3000 staff in the virtues of thriving on chaos The result as one seasoned higher education observer has noted was 18 months of misery for university personnel It tells the story of the professor of material science who came to see himself as small businessman responsible for maintaining a 2 million a year departmental turnover But at the same time he considered this new identity to be constantly hamstrung by the bureaucratic centralism of his university It tells the stories of senior women administrators who empowered by their appointment as managers challenged the deeply embedded paternalism of their senior academic colleagues And it tells the stories of numerous heads of department and sections repositioned as managers in the new marketized further education who have struggled to re imagine students as funding units and colleagues as their staff Craig Prichard provides a highly nuanced theoretically sophisticated and critically informed account of the repositioning of senior university and college academics as managers This is important reading for those interested in post compulsory education public sector management and the sociology of work and education and of course for university and college managers themselves Introduction to Industrial/Organizational Psychology Ronald E.
