

Nature vs. Nurture

Nature vs Nurture is a debate between scientists about what makes people who they are. Some people are born with certain traits, while others are shaped by their environment. Nature is the genetic side of things, but it's difficult to see what part of who we are is determined by our genes. Nurture is the environment that shapes us, but it's difficult to see what part of who we are is determined by our environment. Both have their own strengths and weaknesses, but it's difficult to see what part of who we are is determined by our genes and what part is determined by our environment.
