Dear Laura,

We are writing to commend you on the course work you did beyond the minimum requirements to complete the Teacher Education Program at Northern Michigan University. Your choice to complete the elective course ED222: Classroom Management clearly demonstrates your commitment to continuing professional development to better the teaching and learning that occurs in your classroom.

Specifically, the work you completed in this course helped you to:

- Learn important theories of classroom management and to describe how these theories look in the classroom.
- Discuss research about classroom management and to use this research to support classroom decisions.
- Organize a classroom to establish an environment conducive to good management that is emotionally and physically safe for every student where all students are shown respect and valued.
- Establish reasonable rules for a classroom with student involvement.
- Increase students' personal accountability and sense of responsibility.
- Work with students to help them establish their own parameters of behavior.
- Learn to anticipate problems so they can be handled before a crisis arises.

We are especially proud of how you tracked the progress of your students and how you worked to meet the individual needs of each learner. Knowing each student as an individual and customizing your teaching to their needs demonstrates your ability to attend to the academic, cultural, social, and emotional needs of the learner.

Through this elective course you have set the tone for what you expect from yourself and your students. Congratulations on successfully moving from student teacher to professional educator.

Sincerely,
