Perry Ferguson Shannon Johnson Kelly Hanson Kimberly Houses 10/05/2014 Introduction Stem cells are unspecified cells that have the ability through cell division to become specialized cells. These cells possess regenerative properties for longer periods of time than other cells. And, in certain conditions can be induced to become tissue or organ specific cells. By seeking to understand their regenerative process, scientists can treat, prevent and maybe someday cure diseases such as diabetes and heart disease.

However these are not from eggs that are fertilized in women they actually are made in an in vitro fertilization clinic. In vitro fertilization (IVF) is a method used for combining an egg and sperm together in a laboratory. When an embryonic stem cell is created in a laboratory this means that cells are transferred from a preimplantation-stage and then placed into a plastic culture. The culture dish normally has a broth known as culture medium. This process is not one that is always successful meaning that not all embryos will divide and fill the laboratory dish.

The ones that do split are then gently removed and placed into several other dishes. This process is one that takes several months being that every time a culture dish is full the cells are removed and then divided into other culture dishes; each time the
