NEXUS STATEMENT

The nexus letter is the key to winning a VA compensation claim. Nexus is defined as "the means of connection between things linked in series".

A veteran needs to seek an expert physician who will review your complete medical records and write a letter stating that it is his or her opinion that your injury (condition) today is related to the military service.

The nexus letter should follow a similar format to all letters that you use to communicate to VA. It may be addressed directly to you or in a "To Whom It May Concern" style. If the physician is willing to provide you with a current curriculum vitae (a resume) that will support the physician's expertise.

The nexus letter should follow the standard business format we always use in writing to the VA. This template below may be used as a beginning for your letter.

VIA Certified Mail, Return Receipt:

Veterans:

Full Name: _____

VA File- SSN etc: _____

To Whom It May Concern:

I am a (specialty) physician (Medical Doctor).

I have reviewed the Service Medical Record of Veteran _____ as well as his/her more contemporary medical records and history.

(If a physical examination has occurred, discuss that and report the findings in _____)

(Describe rationale. For example: this veteran has no known history of exposure to _____ factors that may pose a risk for _____. There is no known history of this condition in his/her family history.)

I have concluded and it is my opinion that it is as least as likely as not that the veteran's current condition of (name the condition, illness, injury) was caused by exposure to: _____

Making CO2 a Resource Øyvind Stokke, Elin M. Oftedal, 2024-06-03. This interdisciplinary book explores how CO2 can become a resource instead of a waste and, as such, be a tool to meet one of the grandest challenges humanity is facing: climate change. Drawing on a Norwegian narrative that has significance for a global audience, Øyvind Stokke and Elin Oftedal introduce, in depth, multiple perspective analyses of a sustainable innovation research experiment in industrial carbon capture and utilisation technologies. Building on extensive literature within marine sciences, sustainability research, and environmental philosophy and ethics, this book documents how a misplaced resource like CO2 can become valuable within a circular economy in its own right while, at the same time, meeting the challenge of food security in a world where food production is increasingly under pressure. The book is diverse in scope and includes chapters on how to reduce the environmental footprint of aquaculture by replacing wild fish and soy from the Amazon; how to optimise the monitoring of aquatic environments via smart technologies; and how to replace materials otherwise sourced from natural environments. The authors also analyse the pivotal role of the university in driving innovation and entrepreneurship, the pitfalls of different carbon technologies, and explore how the link between petroleum dependence and CO2 emissions has been addressed in Norway specifically Making CO2 a Resource will be of great interest to students and scholars of climate change environmental ethics environmental philosophy sustainable business and innovation and sustainable development more broadly Designing Sustainable and Resilient Cities Alessandro Melis, Julia Brown, Claire Coulter, 2022-07-27 This book explores the link between the Food Water Energy nexus and sustainability and the extraordinary value that small tweaks to this nexus can achieve for more resilient cities and communities Using data from Urban Living Labs in six participating cities Eindhoven Gda sk Miami Southend on Sea Taipei and Uppsala to co define context specific challenges the results from each city are collated into an Integrated Decision Support System to guide and improve robust decision making on future urban development The book presents contributions from CRUNCH a transdisciplinary team of scholars and practitioners whose expertise spans urban climate modelling food water and energy management the design of resilient public space collecting better urban data and the development of smart city technology Whilst previous works on the Food Water Energy nexus have focused on large transnational cases this book explores local ways to use the Food Water Energy nexus to improve urban resilience It suggests tangible ways in which the cities and communities around us can become both more efficient and more climate resilient through small changes to their existing infrastructure Over half of the world s population lives in urban areas and this is expected to increase to 68% by 2050 We urgently need to make our cities more resilient This book provides a planning tool for decision making and concludes with policy recommendations making it relevant to a range of audiences including urbanists environmentalists architects urban designers and city planners as well as students and scholars interested in alternative approaches to sustainability and resilience Chapter 2 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license
