Innovative Learning Models National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators (NASFAA), 2015 The rules systems and processes that work for traditional term based brick and mortar programs do not always work to advance the innovation that currently exists within higher education and the recommendations in this paper are the first step to help ensure barriers are eliminated that stifle this innovation Innovative learning models provide a means for individuals to learn independent of time or place in order to earn a higher education credential that is credible to both academic institutions and employers The Higher Education Act HEA and Title IV regulations 34 CFR 600.2 look at seat time students completing a certain number of courses and hours within a defined academic period with certain requirements on instructional time Reauthorization of the HEA while keeping credit and clock hours needs to create an alternative way of looking at higher education focused on evidence of student learning what students actually know and can do instead of time Ultimately the federal student aid system must be updated to allow for greater access to programs offered in innovative formats that are not based on traditional credit hour or clock hour models A guiding principle of this task force is to not stand in the way of students being successful and do what is best to meet both the needs of individual learners and the institutions serving these students The recommendations proposed by this task force focus on accelerating time to degree completion improving access lowering total educational cost and keeping student loan indebtedness to a minimum In an attempt to create an explicit process to award financial aid based on actual learning and demonstrated competency rather than time spent in class five themes emerge The following themes set the platform for the statutory and regulatory recommendations 1 flexibility for students and institutions 2 accountability 3 cost of education and federal financial aid 4 complexity and 5 barriers Appended are 1 Recommendations 2 Resources for Innovative Learning Models and 3 a Glossary Don't Miss Out Anna J. Leider,Robert Leider,1997 For more than 20 years Don t Miss Out has been the most widely used authoritative book available on financing a college education Written from a consumer s point of view this new edition presents everything students and their parents should know listing hundreds of scholarship grant and loan sources Charts tables and easy worksheets guide students and parents through the financial maze Guide for Audits of National Direct Student Loan Program (NDSL), College Work-Study Program (CWS), Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants Program (SEOG) United States. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Audit Agency,1978 Redesigning the Financial Aid System Robert B. Archibald,2002-12-13 Archibald argues that one of the problems with the current model in which universities are responsible for the majority of grants while the federal government provides student loans is that a student cannot know the final price of attending a given institution until after he or she has applied been accepted and received a financial aid offer As a result students remain largely uninformed about the cost of their college educations until very late in the decision making process and thus have difficulty making a timely choice In addition financial aid information is kept private creating confusion over the price of a college education and the role of financial aid
