Part 2, Mechanical Engineering Joseph Needham, 1965-01-02 As Dr Needham's immense undertaking gathers momentum it has been found necessary to subdivide volumes into parts each to be bound and published separately The first part of Volume 4 already published deals with the physical sciences the second with the diverse applications of physics in the many branches of mechanical engineering and the third will deal with civil and hydraulic engineering and nautical technology With this part of Volume 4 then we come to the application by the Chinese of physical principles in the control of forces and in the use of power we cross the frontier separating tools from the machine We have already noticed that the ancient Chinese concept of chhi somewhat similar to the pneuma of the Greeks asserted itself prominently in acoustics but we discover here that the Chinese tendency to think pneumatically was also responsible for a whole range of brilliant technological achievements for example the double acting piston bellows the rotary winnowing fan and the water powered metallurgical blowing machine ancestor of the steam engine as well as for some extraordinary insights and predictions in aeronautics
