We all die at the end Sam Haddow, 2025-03-18 We all die at the end offers a survey of contemporary end of the world fiction spanning literature children s fiction video games theatre and film It draws on eco critical philosophy and narrative theory to show ways in which the climate crisis is reorienting storytelling in the face of foreseeable human extinction In the process it argues that such stories have a role to play in helping us come to terms with the severity and scale of the crisis that we face I've Got to Make My Livin' Cynthia M. Blair,2018-09-28 For many years the interrelated histories of prostitution and cities have perked the ears of urban scholars but until now the history of urban sex work has dealt only in passing with questions of race In I've Got to Make My Livin' Cynthia Blair explores African American women's sex work in Chicago during the decades of some of the city's most explosive growth expanding not just our view of prostitution but also of black women's labor the Great Migration black and white reform movements and the emergence of modern sexuality Focusing on the notorious sex districts of the city's south side Blair paints a complex portrait of black prostitutes as conscious actors and historical agents prostitution she argues here was both an arena of exploitation and abuse as well as a means of resisting middle class sexual and economic norms Blair ultimately illustrates just how powerful these norms were offering stories about the struggles that emerged among black and white urbanites in response to black women's increasing visibility in the city's sex economy Through these powerful narratives I've Got to Make My Livin' reveals the intersecting racial struggles and sexual anxieties that underpinned the celebration of Chicago as the quintessentially modern twentieth century city Networks Mark Newman,2010-03-25 The scientific study of networks including computer networks social networks and biological networks has received an enormous amount of interest in the last few years The rise of the Internet and the wide availability of inexpensive computers have made it possible to gather and analyze network data on a large scale and the development of a variety of new theoretical tools has allowed us to extract new knowledge from many different kinds of networks The study of networks is broadly interdisciplinary and important developments have occurred in many fields including mathematics physics computer and information sciences biology and the social sciences This book brings together for the first time the most important breakthroughs in each of these fields and presents them in a coherent fashion highlighting the strong interconnections between work in different areas Subjects covered include the measurement and structure of networks in many branches of science methods for analyzing network data including methods developed in physics statistics and sociology the fundamentals of graph theory computer algorithms and spectral methods mathematical models of networks including random graph models and generative models and theories of dynamical processes taking place on networks Research in Education ,1974
