

Fill in the gaps in statements and/or equations.

1. The theory that explains the behaviour of gases on the molecular level is called the kinetic theory, which is based on assumptions related to the ideal gas of non-relativistic particles.
2. Use the kinetic theory to explain why a helium filled balloon expands when it is brought inside a warm room from the cold outdoors.
 According to the kinetic theory, particles have more kinetic energy. Consequently, the pressure is higher in warm rooms than in the cold outdoors, and consequently it is stronger to expand (outward force). Therefore, the balloon (the particles) will expand to reach the same pressure as the surroundings.
3. Define "1 bar, Pa".
 1 bar is defined as 100,000 Pa or 10⁵ Pa.
4. Gases deviate most from ideal behaviour under conditions of high pressure and low temperature.
5. Pressure is defined as force per unit area. The earth's atmosphere has weight, which creates atmospheric pressure.
6. Standard temperature has been established as 0 °C or 273 K. Standard pressure has been established as 101,325 Pa, 101,325 hPa, 101,325 kPa, 101,325 mbar, 101,325 Torr. The standard unit for standard temperature and pressure is STP.
7. A manometer is used to measure atmospheric pressure, which is absolute, or used to measure gas pressure.
8. With atmospheric pressure increasing, how does the height of the column of mercury change? increases
9. At pressure is constant, the volume of a sample of gas increases as temperature increases.
10. At constant pressure, the volume of a sample of gas is proportional to a temperature inversely as the temperature decreases.
