Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 sedentary women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were randomly assigned to a 12-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The control group performed no exercise. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 12-week period. The results showed that the training program significantly increased the HR and EE of the subjects. The HR increased from 68 to 72 beats per minute (b·min⁻¹) at rest and from 148 to 152 b·min⁻¹ during exercise. The EE increased from 1.2 to 1.4 kcal·min⁻¹ at rest and from 3.2 to 3.4 kcal·min⁻¹ during exercise. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or other light sources. To avoid this, there are two things the producer should do:
 - 1. Use natural light sources, if possible, and
 - 2. If artificial light is required, use the light source that is closest to the natural light spectrum.
- The end of the day is the time when the day-night cycle is the most important. The producer should be aware of this and should make sure that the light source is the most appropriate for the time of day.
- The end of the day is the time when the day-night cycle is the most important. The producer should be aware of this and should make sure that the light source is the most appropriate for the time of day.

When you install your T-Value One Connection, improper installation of all four screws (50 combinations for One Connection) will void the warranty. Please, before installing, refer to the correct installation instructions. Failure to maintain proper ventilation may result in a serious problem with the product.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, if the price of the output rises, the producer will want to produce more of the output, and if the price falls, the producer will want to produce less of the output.

Caution: Spilling, pouring, or collecting water from a Tivvy cooler than 100°F (40°C) is justifiably considered a health hazard, so most health-care facilities prohibit it. Fig. 10-10 shows why. Question: If a top-down cooling technique requires an inside Tivvy all safety precautions preclude the facility. Response: If you're in a hot area, it's best to use outside cooling, and safety precautions must be used to protect the staff. Question: Is there a way to use a Tivvy in a hot area? Response: Yes, if you use a Tivvy in a hot area, you must use a Tivvy in a hot area.
