Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art, 1871 Acoustic Communication Analysis for Understanding Animal Behavior Sara Anna Bonini, Susanna Pietropaolo, 2022-09-13 People - Marine Mammal

Interactions Andrew Butterworth, Mark P. Simmonds, 2017-08-15 Our relationships with marine mammals are complex. We have used them as resources and in some places this remains the case; viewed them as competitors and culled them again; ongoing in some localities been so captivated and intrigued by them that we have taken them into captivity for our entertainment and developed a lucrative eco tourism activity focused on them in many nations. When we first envisaged this special topic we had two overarching aims. Firstly we hoped to generate critical evaluation of some of our relationships with these animals. Secondly we hoped to attract knowledgeable commentators and experts who might not traditionally publish in the peer reviewed literature. We were also asking ourselves a question about what responsibility mankind might have to marine mammals on our rapidly changing planet. The answer to the question can or should humans have responsibility for the lives of marine mammals when they are affected by our activities is in our opinion yes and the logical progression from this question is to direct research and effort to understand and optimise the actions, reactions and responses that mankind may be able to take. We hope that the papers in this special issue bring some illumination to a small selection of topics under this much wider topic area and prove to be informative and stimulating.

The Nile Delta Katherine Blouin, 2024-02-22 This is the first volume on the history of the Nile Delta to cover the c 7000 years from the Predynastic period to the twentieth century. It offers a multidisciplinary approach engaging with varied aspects of the region's long complex yet still underappreciated history. Readers will learn of the history of settlement, agriculture and the management of water resources at different periods and in different places as well as the naming and mapping of the Delta and the roles played by tourism and archaeology. The wide range of backgrounds of the contributors and the broad panoply of methodological and conceptual practices deployed enable new spaces to be opened up for conversations and cross fertilization across disciplinary and chronological boundaries. The result is a potent tribute to the historical significance of this region and the instrumental role it has played in the shaping of past, present and future Afro Eurasian worlds.

Missionary Interests David Golding, Christopher Cannon Jones, 2024-04-15 In Missionary Interests David Golding and Christopher Cannon Jones bring together works about Protestant and Mormon missionaries in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries charting new directions for the historical study of these zealous evangelists for their faith. Despite their sectarian differences both groups of missionaries shared notions of dividing the world categorically along the lines of race, status and relative exoticism and both employed humanitarian outreach with designs to proselytize. American missionaries occupied liminal spaces between proselytizer and proselytized, feminine and masculine, colonizer and colonized. Taken together the chapters in Missionary Interests dismantle easy characterizations of missions and conversion and offer an overlooked juxtaposition between Mormon and Protestant missionary efforts in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

How Primates Eat Joanna E. Lambert, Margaret A. H. Bryer, Jessica M. Rothman, 2024-07-30 Exploring everything from nutrients to food acquisition and research methods, a comprehensive synthesis of the study of diet and feeding in nonhuman primates. What do we mean when we say that a diet is nutritious Why can some animals get all the energy they need from eating leaves while others would perish on such a diet Why don t mountain gorillas eat fruit all day as chimpanzees do Answers to these questions about food and feeding are among the many tasty morsels that emerge from this authoritative book Informed by the latest scientific tools and millions of hours of field and laboratory work on species across the primate order and around the globe this volume is an exhaustive synthesis of our understanding of what why and how primates eat State of the art information presented at physiological behavioral ecological and evolutionary scales will serve as a road map for graduate students researchers and practitioners as they work toward a holistic understanding of life as a primate and the urgent conservation consequences of diet and food availability in a changing world

Managing the Urgent and Unexpected Stephen Wearne, Keith White-Hunt, 2016-05-13 Sometimes unanticipated threats or opportunities create a situation in which work is required unexpectedly On these occasions such urgent and unexpected work demands an instant start in contrast to the often lengthy processes of investigation evaluation development selection and planning normal in businesses and public services before the start of a project Managing the Urgent and Unexpected explores what is different managerially if work is unexpected its implementation is urgent and an immediate start it is required The authors draw on twelve cases ranging from the launch of the Freeview television system in the United Kingdom to the sifting and removal of the New York World Trade Center pile of debris following the 9 11 terrorist attack They summarise how the response to each of these events was managed demonstrate that opportunities may sometimes be created in the face of adversity and suggest how normal organizations can prepare to manage abnormal demands Urgent and unexpected projects have to be rare in business or government to be economically and socially tolerable And yet organizations can and should be prepared for the unexpected The lessons offered here will help private and public organizations plan how to authorize and support future urgent work to take advantage of immediate new business opportunities or to protect or restore systems and services
