Protecting Human Security In Africa:

Protecting Human Security in Africa Ademola Abass, 2010-09-23 Protecting Human Security in Africa discusses some of the most potent threats to human security in Africa. It deals especially with those threats to the security of African people which are least understood or explored. In themes varying from corruption, the proliferation of small arms and light weapons, food security, the devastation of internal displacement in Africa, the link between natural resources and human security, to the problems of forced labour, threats to women's security and environmental security, the book examines the legal and policy challenges of protecting human security in Africa. This work also analyses the role of NGOs and the civil society in advocating human security issues in Africa. It considers the role of regional human rights mechanisms and judicial bodies such as the African Commission for Human Rights and the African Court of Human and Peoples Rights in seeking to guarantee human security in Africa. Finally, with particular reference to the Somalia, Zimbabwe, Kenya and Darfur crises, the book studies the role of African regional organizations, especially the African Union, in protecting the human security of Africans. Written by leading experts on its various themes, this is an indispensable book for all those seeking to learn more about the real challenges facing Africans and African organizations.

Promotion of Human Security in Africa Solomon A. Dersso, 2008 In Africa, various conditions pose pervasive threats to human security. Addressing these threats and promoting human security therefore constitute formidable challenges. As the paradigmatic shift in the discourse on and practice of human security has led to a change in the normative emphasis from sovereignty and non-intervention to responsibility and international humanitarian and human rights norms, questions arise not only as to the relationship between human security and human rights but also as to the contribution of the human rights system in addressing human security threats and promoting human freedom. What tools does the African human rights system have at its disposal that can be used in the promotion of human security on the continent? What are the roles of the African Commission and the AHRC in this regard? What are the potentials and the challenges? How best can these human rights bodies be employed to optimise their contributions to addressing the pervasive human security threats and to promoting the well-being of individuals and communities on the continent? This monograph investigates these and similar issues, including the basic one of the interface between human rights and human security.

Protecting Human Security in Africa Ademola Abass, 2010-09-23 This text explores the gravest threats to human security in Africa. Written by leading experts on its various themes, it combines legal and policy perspectives on the issues, making it an indispensable book for those seeking to learn more about the real challenges facing Africans and African organizations.

Building Resilience; Human Security Approaches to AIDS in Africa and Asia Susan Hubbard, Tomoko Suzuki, 2008-05 HIV/AIDS is not merely a health issue; rather, it has significant implications for other threats that individuals and communities face and is itself further impacted by these other challenges. This volume explores the utility of human security approaches to AIDS in Africa and Asia. It concentrates on programs that emphasize the human aspects of fighting HIV AIDS develop comprehensive responses that cut across sectors and disciplines and aim to protect and empower communities to deal with the challenges of communicable diseases Drawing upon five case studies from projects supported by the United Nations Trust Fund for Human Security the study analyzes the added value of human security approaches and the challenges faced by organizations attempting to implement human security projects on the ground

The Issue Of Human Rights In Africa Girma Yohannes Iyassu Menelik, 2014-08-08 Human rights as a legal concept and codification of human dignity were late to arrive in Africa Its evolution on this continent is to be seen against the background of the dynamic development of human rights within the United Nations system and that of international law although the impetus of this evolution is owed to the struggles within African states in the pre colonial colonial and post independence eras Human rights are rights inherent to all human beings whatever our nationality place of residence sex national or ethnic origin color religion language or any other status We are all equally entitled to our human rights without discrimination These rights are all interrelated interdependent and indivisible Universal human rights are often expressed and guaranteed by law in the forms of treaties customary international law general principles and other sources of international law International human rights law lays down obligations of Governments to act in certain ways or to refrain from certain acts in order to promote and protect human rights and fundamental freedoms of individuals or groups Human rights are inalienable They should not be taken away except in specific situations and according to due process For example the right to liberty may be restricted if a person is found guilty of a crime by a court of law Interdependent and indivisible All human rights are indivisible whether they are civil and political rights such as the right to life equality before the law and freedom of expression economic social and cultural rights such as the rights to work social security and education or collective rights such as the rights to development and self determination are indivisible interrelated and interdependent The improvement of one right facilitates advancement of the others Likewise the deprivation of one right adversely affects the others Equal and non discriminatory Non discrimination is a crosscutting principle in international human rights law The principle is present in all the major human rights treaties and provides the central theme of some of international human rights conventions such as the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination and the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women Human Rights as parts of moral discourse have significant implication on content of political social and economic life of human beings

Africa's Human Rights Architecture John Akokpali, Daniel Shea Zimble, 2008 Presenting a critical examination of the evolution of Africa's human rights in the post Cold War era this collection methodically explores the challenges of achieving human rights on this continent The chapters provide a uniquely pan African perspective on the achievements failings accomplishments and deficiencies of the various human rights activists and institutions seeking to improve the lives of Africa's 800 million inhabitants The contributors to this multidisciplinary volume are all active in the arena of African human rights and come
