The Process of Question Answering Wendy G. Lehnert, 2022-11-01. Originally published in 1978, The Process of Question Answering examines a phenomenon that relies on many realms of human cognition: language comprehension, memory retrieval, and language generation. Problems in computational question answering assume a new perspective when question answering is viewed as a problem in natural language processing. A theory of human question answering must necessarily entail a theory of human memory organization and theories of the cognitive processes that access and manipulate information in memory. This book describes question answering as a particular task in information processing. The theoretical models described here have been built on a formulation of general theories in natural language processing, theories about language that were developed without the specific problem of question answering in mind. By requiring programmers to be concerned with the precise form of information in memory and the precise operations manipulating that information, they can uncover significant problems that would otherwise be overlooked. An early insight into artificial intelligence, today this reissue can be enjoyed in its historical context.

Measurement for the Social Sciences John R. Rossiter, 2010-11-25. This book proposes a revolutionary new theory of construct measurement called C OAR SE for the social sciences. The acronym is derived from the following key elements: construct definition, object representation, attribute classification, rater entity identification, selection of item type, enumeration, and scoring. The new theory is applicable to the design of measures of constructs in Management, Marketing, Information Systems, Organizational Behavior, Psychology, Sociology. C OAR SE is a rationally rather than empirically based theory and procedure. It can be used for designing measures of the most complex and also the most basic constructs that we use in social science research. C OAR SE is a radical alternative to the traditional empirically based psychometric approach, and a considerable amount of the book's content is devoted to demonstrating why the psychometric approach does not produce valid measures. The book argues that the psychometric approach has resulted in many misleading findings in the social sciences and has led to erroneous acceptance or rejection of many of our main theories and hypotheses, and that the C OAR

SE approach to measurement would correct this massive problem The main purpose of this book is to introduce and explain C OAR SE construct measurement theory in a way that will be understood by all social science researchers and that can be applied to designing new more valid measures Featuring numerous examples practical applications end of chapter questions and appendices the book will serve as an essential resource for students and professional researcher alike
