

2.2 Activity

Using a Classification Key

You are a biologist who has just collected a water sample from the San Diego Bay near Otters. After carefully examining the sample with a compound light microscope, you have drawn the organisms below and listed their identifying features.

In this activity, you will identify various species of pond protists using a dichotomous key.

Procedure

1. Use the vocabulary terms in Table 1 to help you recognize protist structures.
2. To identify each protist in Figures 1–6, start by reading Table 2, row 1 (a) and (b). Then follow the “go to” directions at the end of the appropriate sentence.

(a) Identify the protist in each figure by name.

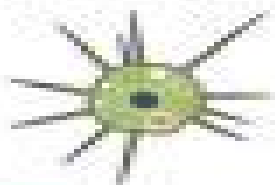

Figure 1

- Length: 40–60 μm
- spherical
- pseudopodia extend in ray pattern

Figure 2

- Length: 100 μm
- no fixed shape
- uses pseudopodia for movement and to ingest food

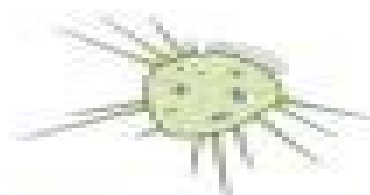

Figure 3

- Length: 20–40 μm
- spheroidal
- has cilia around entire opening
- has permanent contractile vacuole

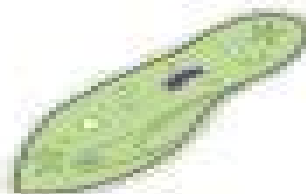

Figure 4

- Length: 200–300 μm
- oblong shape
- body is surrounded by cilia

Figure 5

- Length: 10–40 μm
- oval shape
- has two visible flagella

Figure 6

- Length: 40–100 μm
- oblong shape
- spherical flagellum
- uses chloroplasts to make food through photosynthesis

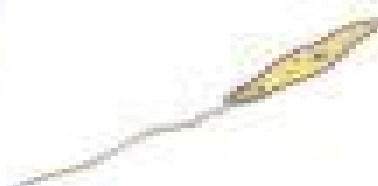

Figure 7

- Length: 20–100 μm
- thin oval shape
- uses visible flagellum to pull carbon structures used through water
- covered, retractable flagellum to attract and used to capture food

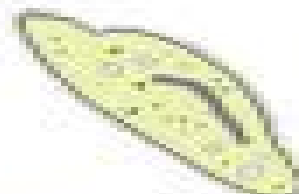

Figure 8

- Length: 100–150 μm
- somewhat spheroidal
- cell is covered with cilia in spiral pattern

Table 1 Vocabulary Terms

cilia	• tiny (10–20 μm) microscopically visible protein structures present on the surface of many cells, notably animal and some types of prokaryotic epithelium • usually occur in large groups • by beating, can produce cell movement or create a current in fluid surrounding the cell flagella	• normally long (up to 100 μm), thin, tubular structures present on the surface of some cells (e.g., spermatozoa, protists, bacteria) • occur singly or in small groups • by beating, can produce movement of the cell
pseudopodia	• extensions of cell protoplasm • important in the “false foot” for locomotion and food capture • may be short or long-lived, form a temporary network, or be diffused with an internal supporting system
